

Furillo's Homer Goes For Naught

New York (AP) — Billy (The Kid) Martin's record 12th World Series hit in the last of the ninth gave Casey Stengel's proud New York Yankees an unprecedented fifth straight world championship yesterday with a 4-3 victory over Brooklyn in the sixth game at Yankee Stadium.

Lashing back after Carl Furillo's two-run homer off Alie Reynolds tied the score in the Dodger ninth, the Yanks snuffed out Brooklyn hopes with a stunning comeback against reliever Clem Labine.

Hank Bauer walked on a 3-2 pitch and Yogi Berra flied out deep to Furillo before Mickey Mantle outsped a slow roller off the glove of third baseman Billy Cox. It was scored as a single and Bauer moved to second on it.

Martin, finishing the series with a .500 batting average, looked at a called strike and then slammed a line single to center that scored Bauer with the winning run of the richest of all Series. Duke Snider didn't even bother to throw to the plate as Bauer sped home, free and clear.

With the hit Martin tied the all-time record for most hits in a Series, 12, and established a mark for a six-game set. He won for his delicious Yank mates full pay shares of about $8,000 from the record player pool of $694,341.61.

This game, finished under lights because of dark, threatening clouds, saved its drama for the final moments. Until the ninth it looked to the 62,370 fans like a routine 3-1 triumph for the always-winning Yanks who now have a 16-4 record in Series competition.

Martin's hit saved Whitey Ford from going down in the record book, guilty of one of the most momentous blunders since Fred Merkle failed to touch second.

It looked innocent enough at the time when Ford failed to tag up after a long 370-foot fly ball by Berra in the second and was doubled at the plate. But as the game wore on that run loomed larger and larger.

After Furillo's tying homer, the run was high enough to sprout goat's horns on Ford's brow for the rest of the winter, but fortunately for the chunky southpaw, Martin came to the rescue.

Ford's futile dance off third, his return toward the bag to find Joe Collins steaming in from second and his final desperate dash to the plate came when the Yanks had the bases loaded with only one out.

Ike's Brother Visits Home Of Kidnaped Boy

Kansas City (AP) — New mystery arose last night in the eight-day-old kidnapping of Bobby Greenlease as the banker brother of President Eisenhower visited the Greenlease home.

Arthur B. Eisenhower declined to comment after he spent 15 minutes in the home. It was his second call there in the last 48 hours. His visit yesterday aroused speculation as to what, if any, connection he has with the case.

Joseph Williams, president of the Commerce Trust Co., visited the home last week. At that time the 71-year-old father, Robert C. Greenlease, said he had made arrangements to get currency day or night to meet any ransom demand. Arthur Eisenhower is executive vice president of the same bank and an old friend of the Greenlease family.

The speculation over the Eisenhower visit arose after a vacuum of silence had covered the disappearance of the 6-year-old boy.

Turkey Wins Seat On U.N. Council: Poland Defeated

United Nations, N. Y. (AP) — Turkey won a seat on the U. N. Security Council yesterday with solid United States support against Russia's candidate, Poland.

It was the third straight time the Americans wrested the Eastern European seat from the Soviet Bloc. Turkey received 40 votes on the eighth secret ballot in the U. N. Assembly and Poland had 19. Brazil and New Zealand were chosen on the first ballot for the other two vacancies in the 11 nation council, with 56 and 48 votes respectively.

Turkey, Brazil and New Zealand will take their places on the council next Jan. 1 for two-year terms. They will replace Greece, Chile and Pakistan. They also will serve on the Disarmament Commission which is faced with the problem of the hydrogen bomb.

Demands Free Elections

Washington (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said yesterday he would oppose any offer of a non-aggression pact to Russia unless the Soviets agreed to permit free elections in all their satellite nations.

Gen. Clark Charges Neutral Commission Assumes Balking Reds Desire Repatriation

Pennsion, Tuesday, (AP) — Gen. Mark Clark today told the Indian custodian of 22,500 Chinese and North Korean prisoners that these men made their choice many months ago against returning to Communism and will stick to it unless coerced.

He said the custodians made a mistake if they assumed otherwise. The Far Eastern commander, demanding that "freedom of choice" be upheld in the true as it was by Allied bloodshed during prolongation of the war, sent a lengthy complaint to the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

County Takes Part Tonight In Air Alert

Pennsylvania's biggest alert since formation of the State Civil Defense Council three years ago will be staged tonight.

Monroe County C.D. officials said they are set for the operation. The alarm is scheduled for 7:02 p. m. will last until 7:17 p. m. All traffic movement will halt in the county. Police and wardens will be on patrol. Passersby will be instructed to take cover in the nearest buildings.

A highlight of the alert will be the rendezvous of eight fire companies at the Stroudsburg Firehouse after the alarm sounds.

Main St. sirens will sound the warning in Stroudsburg, but the firehouse whistle will not blow. "The signal will be 'fanned out' from the Philadelphia area after a theoretical 'atom bomb' drops over Market St. there.

Air raid wardens of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg were alerted last night by their respective chief wardens, Clarence Seip and Louis Caramella for tonight's 11-county area A-bomb test.

Every one of the wardens is advised to carry his Civil Defense card, wear a white band around the arm and carry a flashlight.

These are the minimum requirements for the alert which is scheduled to start at 7:05 p.m.

A time check will be broadcast by Station WYPO at 5 and at 5:15 p.m. today for the use of Civil Defense workers.

The time check is to enable all C.D. personnel to synchronize their watches in anticipation of the alert.

The time check will be relayed by WYPO from the regular Army time signal, said C.D. Assistant Director Paul Crawn.

About 6 p.m., C.D. will give a time check to fire companies by telephone.

Musmanno Raps Treatment Ex-GI Received At Hospital

Pittsburgh (AP) — Pennsylvania Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno compared treatment of a former GI patient at a state mental hospital yesterday to "medieval torture."

The high court set aside a $5,000 verdict against Mark Riser and Norman Bailey, doctors at the Allegheny Hospital.

The Common Pleas Court of Lehigh County had awarded the verdict to a part-time trombonist, Reynold F. Powell, 27. The Pen Argyl man said he lost 60 per cent of the use of his hands due to "incompetent" treatment.

300 Community Chest Workers Challenged To Put Drive Over Top

Spurred on by an unflinchingly address from Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, Monroe County's Community Chest kicked its drive off to a flying start last night.

During his keynote speech at the annual Chest dinner, Rev. Campbell urged his listeners to remember that "the people have faith in the leadership of the Community Chest . . . but, more important, that people do have the money (to give)."

"This is a great cause," Rev. Campbell told his audience, reminding them that, in their participation in the Chest drive, some of the greatness would reflect upon the workers.

Campbell had chosen "No Cause for Apology" as the theme for his address to the nearly 300 persons attending.

Throughout the speech, the minister returned to the idea that the success of failure of the Chest campaign "depends on the workers." National and local publicity, he said, had paved the way for personal contact with prospective donors.

But, he pointed out, the most important feature of the remaining portion of the campaign is the "impact the worker makes" on the housewife, businessman or industrialist being asked to contribute.

"No apology (for the Chest) is necessary," Campbell said. "We represent a cause which is worthwhile. The Community Chest drive and our work in it is a drive with international overtones . . ."

Pointing to the fact that, only in a democratic state would it be possible to carry on such a drive "without interference from the State," Rev. Campbell called the campaign:

"... a functional working of democracy . . . in a world which has heard too much propaganda and seen too few illustrations of democracy at work."

Then the speaker, pastor of First

Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church, turned his analysis to the religious meanings of the Chest drive.

Urging all persons involved in the campaign to recall the words of Christ to the disciples—"What do ye more than others?" — the speaker set forth two principles.

"No religion is worth its salt," he said, "unless it has two qualities — an upward reach toward God . . . and an outward reach toward Man."

"No man's faith is complete," he continued, "until his outward reach toward Man comes into line with his upward reach toward God."

Apathy on the part of some local citizens brought a barbed comment from the minister.

"There is a type of ostrich citizenship in Monroe County," he said, referring to persons who "do not like to watch suffering" and refuse to accept responsibilities.

"We must be honest enough and realistic enough to realize that the need of the Chest's agencies 'is there,' Rev. Campbell declared.

"It is not a question of either giving to the Chest or not giving at all. God never said that the question 'Am I my brother's keeper' should be put up to a referendum."

The speaker then pointed to the great values of preventive work done by the Chest's ten agencies. "The curative job," he said, "is more spectacular than the preventive. Deliverance is always more spectacular than prevention."

"It's just as important to put a guard rail at the top of the cliff as it is to put an ambulance at the bottom of it. And there's a lot less bloodshed (when you use) the railing," he added.

Rev. Campbell was introduced by Chest campaign chairman M.S. Baldwin.

His address will be broadcast at 11:30 a.m. today over radio station WYPO.

Baldwin, during early parts of the program, also introduced the vice-chairman, Mrs. Frank L. Patterson Jr.; Elton P. Hall, publicity

Farm Laborer Badly Hurt When Struck By Automobile

Saylorsburg—A 22-year-old Nanticoke man, employed as a farm laborer near here, was seriously injured last night while walking on Route 115.

Leo Garren, 156 E. Noble St., Nanticoke, was taken to Easton Hospital after he was struck by an auto which State police said was operated by Austin A. Greenzweig, Saylorsburg. Garren was walking "with" traffic, along the road. Greenzweig's car, traveling in the same direction, struck the man from the rear, a Brodheadsville trooper said.

Easton Hospital officials listed Garren's condition as "serious" after his admission there at 8 p. m. The laborer is suffering from a brain concussion, scalp cuts and cuts on the left hand.

Garren is employed by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Young, Saylorsburg, RD., as a helper on their farm.

Last night Mrs. Young said Garren had been employed there since March 16. According to Mrs. Young, the laborer left the Young home at about 7:15 p. m., on his way to the Youth Fellowship meeting at Brick Church.

About 10 minutes later, Mrs. Young related, neighbors called to tell the family that Garren had been hit by a car.

State police said the accident occurred at about 7:20 p. m., opposite the Blue Ridge Drive-In theater.

Garren was taken to the hospital by the Wind Gap ambulance. Trooper Steve Sabin said, and was treated by Dr. Robert Dreher, of Wind Gap.

Investigation of the accident continues today. Police last night were attempting to contact Garren's mother, Mrs. Florence Everett, in Nanticoke.

23 Injured When Bus Hits Truck

Swedesboro, N.J. (AP) — A crowded Greyhound express bus crashed into the rear of a tractor-trailer truck and overturned yesterday on the New Jersey Turnpike, injuring 23 persons.

Nine others, including the driver escaped injury. None of the injured passengers are in a serious condition.

The bus, traveling south on the toll road from New York to Washington, contained mostly servicemen returning to their bases from weekend leaves.

Surgeons Give Humans Arteries From Cows, Pigs

Chicago, (AP)—Four men are living with new arteries taken from calves and a pig, a surgeon announced yesterday.

The animal arteries are replacing their own damaged arteries in the chest, arm and leg.

It is a great surgical feat. For it marks the first time repair of a law of nature which has been blocking the goal of giving humans new hearts, lungs, or kidneys for their own tired, sick or damaged organs.

This law says no human will tolerate mature organs or tissues taken from another human or an animal. Your body reacts to destroy the borrowed spare part.

Color Picture Tube Developed

New York (AP) — A picture tube for color television said to be capable of mass production in large screen sizes at low cost was announced yesterday by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Jelke To Post Bail Pending Appeal Of Case

New York (AP) — Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke, oleomargarine heir, will be freed on $50,000 bail today pending an appeal of his conviction of compulsory prostitution, officials announced yesterday.

The bond was set Friday by Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Cox. The justice granted a certificate of reasonable doubt on whether Jelke was a public trial.

Newsmen were barred from the sensational trial of the links between the young man about town and sultry girls who plied their trade in the fashionable sections of Manhattan.

Justice Cox held that a five-judge appellate division should rule on whether such a trial was a public one. Jelke received a 3- to 6-year sentence.

Jelke, however, was not eligible for release until he completed an eight-month sentence for illegal possession of two guns.

Earl Warren Becomes 14th Chief Justice

Washington (AP) — In a simple ceremony witnessed by President Eisenhower and a host of other dignitaries, Earl Warren became the 14th chief justice of the United States yesterday.

Right hand uplifted, and his 6 feet 2 frame cloaked for the first time in a black judicial robe, the former governor of California vowed he would uphold the Constitution and administer justice under law to rich and poor alike.

Then at 12:07 p.m., with an air of genial assurance, Warren took his place behind the high Supreme Court bench—holder of the highest judicial office in the land, inheritor of the mantle of John Marshall, Roger Taney and Charles Evans Hughes.

Warren became the second Republican — Justice Burton is the other one — and the only Californian on the court. He is the first justice to be named by a Republican president since the late Benjamin Cardozo ascended the bench in 1932.

In the sun-filled courtyard outside the gleaming white Supreme Court Building, the flag of the United States flew at half-staff in memory of the chief justice Warren succeeded, the late Fred M. Vinson.

Eisenhower Invokes Law First Time

New York (AP) — A multi-million-dollar waterfront strike ended last night after paralyzing East Coast shipping for five days. More than 100 vessels were tied up from Maine to Virginia.

President Eisenhower used the Taft-Hartley law for the first time since he took office to choke off the strike of 60,000 longshoremen in 12 Eastern ports. Its cost to the maritime industry was estimated at 7½ million dollars — 1½ millions a day.

Patrick J. Connoy, executive vice president of the striking International Longshoremen's Assn., said time is too short for a return to work in the morning.

"I can get the men back to work tomorrow night for the 7 o'clock shift and Wednesday morning," he said. "I will order them back as quickly as I can."

His promise brought an uneasy truce to the piers but no prospect of real peace.

Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld ordered the strike ended when he paved the way for an 80-day cooling-off period that expires Christmas Eve.

"If the strike is permitted to continue . . . it will imperil the national health and safety," ruled Weinfeld in his Taft-Hartley law injunction.

He said the strike posed a threat to the nation's defense production and its shipments of food abroad — including the propaganda — rich food package shipments to Communist-held East Germany.

The I.L.A. kicked out of the AFL, rent by civil war, and fighting for its life, called the strike Oct. 1, ostensibly over a wage dispute with 170 East Coast shippers. Underlying the walkout, however, was a bitter struggle for dock control between the racket-infected I.L.A. and a newly chartered AFL dock union.

It was the first big East Coast dock strike since the autumn of 1951 when a billion dollar wildcat strike lasted for 25 days.

No dry cargo vessels were handled by longshoremen during the current strike.

About a dozen passenger liners made their way in and out of New York without benefit of tugs, since tugboat crewmen respected I.L.A. picket lines. The last of the big dignitaries, Earl Warren became the 14th chief justice of the United States yesterday.

Right hand uplifted, and his 6 feet 2 frame cloaked for the first time in a black judicial robe, the former governor of California vowed he would uphold the Constitution and administer justice under law to rich and poor alike.

Thousands View Parade Opening Fire Prevention Week

11 Companies, Five Bands In Line of March

Thousands watched the county's first major parade of fire equipment last night.

Eleven fire companies and 27 pieces of apparatus were sandwiched between the prancing majorettes, cymbal-crashing high school bands and the shiny cars of officials.

The parade wound on schedule between the two boroughs, starting from East Stroudsburg High School about 8 p.m. and slogging on down the main streets of each borough to finish at Ninth and Williams Sts. in Stroudsburg.

Rain drifted down an hour or two before the parade, but lifted in time to keep the polished fire-wagons from getting soaked.

Spectators lined up all along the route of march, standing on the curbs, balancing on the bumpers of cars or looking down from house windows or porches.

Five bands—Smithfield School, East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, East Stroudsburg High School, Stroudsburg High School and American Legion—paced the marching firemen and color bearers through the cool night air.

After the parade ended marchers, firemen and students converged on Stroudsburg firehouse for refreshments.

The parade signaled the start of Fire Prevention Week in the Monroe County area.

Fire companies will be following through for the rest of the week with their own programs. Tonight at 7:30 Stroudsburg firemen will have open house at the station. The Pioneer Band will play.

LARRY HARDY'S loss of one arm at the age of 10 never stopped the Cresco man from progressing on life's path. Father of six children, Hardy never missed employment since the accident 56 years ago. Here he displays his work at Art Metal Works, East Stroudsburg, where he has been employed for seven years. (Daily Record Photo)

Larry Hardy Undaunted By Loss Of Right Arm

He was only 10 years old at the time, 56 years ago, but had it happened today Larry Hardy would still have an arm because of advanced medical-surgical treatment.

Larry was a messenger for the DL&W Railroad and was crossing cars at the Cresco station to deliver an official memo to his dad. It was 9 a.m. on St. Patrick's Day. The lad fell to the tracks and opened a cut above his right elbow.

At 4 that afternoon the family doctor amputated Larry's arm—without giving him a sedative in the bedroom at Larry's home.

And so the boy who had learned to write with his right hand started all over again, for his arm was gone and only a small stump remained near the shoulder blade.

Larry continued his education in Barrett Township schools, determined to overcome the handicap and reach his ambition—a railroad.

In 1913 Larry joined the DL&W's permanent payroll as a gateman.

Later he was a switch tender and rode the train from Hoboken to Buffalo.

After 25 years another accident prompted his decision to terminate his railroad career. It happened in Scranton in 1938. Larry was caught between two cars and a bone in his hip was broken.

After his recovery, Larry held odd jobs until World War Two when he joined International Boiler Works. Seven years ago he accepted employment with Art Metal Works, Inc., East Stroudsburg, and has been on the payroll ever since.

Loss of one arm was no hindrance to the determined man who raised six children, all of whom are now married, and built three homes.

"There's no job I can't do," Larry proudly explains. At present he's a helper on a degreasing machine at Art Metal and carries trays in the production line. "Doing a good job, too," Bob Altmore, personnel manager, reports. Larry's wife Allida also works at Art Metal as a kick-press operator.

What happens to a man when he loses his arm? Well, Larry has had a full life, complete with active sports competition and a proven workman.

Larry drove truck, fired locomotive engines, does all the work around the house, including mowing grass, once worked nine months at Buck Hill "striking drill," which means he handled an eight-pound sledge hammer, pounding stakes into the ground "and never once hit the finger of a man holding the stake."

As for sports—Larry gained local fame with the Buck Hill Association team and played semi-pro ball for out-of-state nines. As a pitcher Larry tossed with his left hand and caught the catcher's return barehanded. "I even went behind the bat and caught a fall game one time—barehanded." His batting average was considered good, wielding the stick with his powerful, flexible left arm.

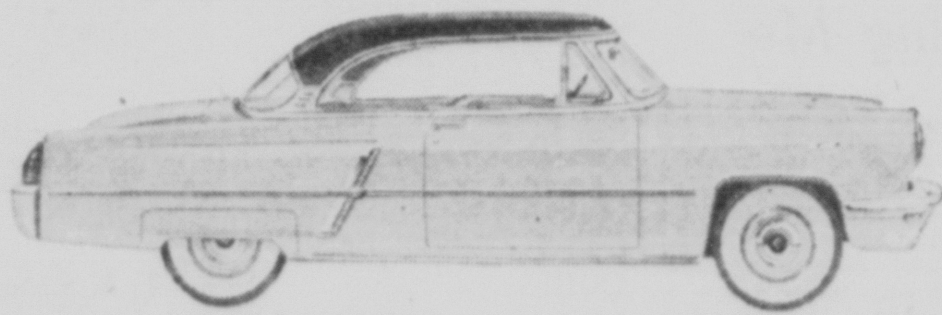

Larry's personal story is proof alone that handicapped persons make excellent workers. "Never saw a job I couldn't do," he repeated several times. And the work Larry's doing at Art Metal is more than satisfactory according to Altmore.

Art Metal, like many other industrial plants in this region, recognizes that handicapped persons are excellent workers. They are advertising for handicapped workers and especially are interested in hiring persons who have the use of both hands. So anyone paralyzed from the hips down has an excellent chance for positions with this firm.

Philly Urged To Continue Stream Cleanup

Mount Pocono—A resolution urging the voting populace of Philadelphia to ballot favorably on a $19,000,000 program to continue the clean streams program in that area was adopted here yesterday when representatives of Incodel convened for their annual meeting at Pocono Manor.

Incodel (Interstate, Commission on the Delaware River Basin) has been one of the leading factors in urging such action along the basin, and Philadelphia is the largest city in that locale called upon to execute such action, members reported.

The opening day's session of the two-day conference also saw the reelection of officers.

Renamed are Francis A. Pitkin, of Pennsylvania, chairman; and Elisha T. Barrett, New York State Assemblyman; Charles R. Erdman Jr., New Jersey Commissioner of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development; and Raymond B. Phillips, Delaware, as vice chairmen. James H. Allen was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Pitkin, in his annual report, related the action of the Pennsylvania Water Resources Committee. This group filed with Gov. John S. Fine their report saying that Pennsylvania would not benefit under Incodel plan, suggesting the state work out its own program or try to develop one in cooperation with New Jersey.

Sessions resume this morning at 10. At noon Incodel's members will convene with members of the Lehigh Valley Flood Control Council to discuss various issues.

Proposal To Bring New Industry To Bangor Presented To Council; Plans To Employ 200

Bangor—A plan for bringing new industry to this borough was presented to council here last night by Bryden Strunk, a school board member.

He said he had been in contact with officials of an unidentified firm which was interested in setting up in the borough's old park area, and would employ about 140 men and 60 women.

Firm officials said the park area would be suitable for their purposes. They proposed that the borough grant them land in the park for building purposes, according to Strunk.

A member of council pointed out that the borough is acting as trustee of the park land. The borough could sell the land for a nominal sum "to the Chamber of Commerce or other interested individual," said George Plush. He added that council would first have to obtain court approval of such a sale.

Question by council, Strunk said he was "unable to divulge the name of the firm at this time." In answer to another question, Strunk said the firm was not the same one which is trying to enter Roseto.

Strunk said there would be no question of industrial waste or sewage for council to consider in granting the firm's request. Bangor Chamber of Commerce officials did "not know fully of this affair," he responded to another query.

Council President John Farleigh referred the question of granting a site to the planning committee, headed by Plush. Members are Burgess Hayden Pritchard and J. Lawrence Davis, borough solicitor.

Plush suggested that Strunk,

Chamber officials, and officials of the firm be included in a meeting. The meeting was set for 7 tonight.

Citizens Gas Co. asked council to consider a connection for natural gas between that company and the Bangor Gas Co. The request, from Paul Hart, was relayed by Burgess Pritchard.

It would be necessary to tear up some streets to make the connection. Borough ordinance requires that a license be purchased to do this street work.

The gas company asked that the borough grant the license without charge, and said it would repair the streets afterward or pay the borough $3 a yard if the borough preferred to make the repairs.

Council agreed that this would be contrary to an existing ordinance and turned down the request to grant the license without charge.

Council agreed on a vote of thanks to Frank Bozzelli, a property owner who at his own expense tore down two buildings at the corner of N. Main St. and Pennsylvania Ave., which were causing a hazardous condition by obstructing the vision of motorists driving south.

It was also agreed that the council would not purchase its own (borough) property from a contractor who removed it, then offered it for sale to the borough.

The property was a cast iron water pipe weighing about 600 pounds, which formerly lay under the sidewalk in front of a N. Main St. property. Contractor Patsy DeMaria picked up the pipe while he was laying sidewalk, and removed it to his business place.

DeMaria then told council president the borough could "have it

back if they pay for it."

Council instructed the secretary to write DeMaria ordering him to return the borough's pipe to town hall within 10 days.

Under consideration is a proposal for restricting parking to one side of Second St., from Chestnut to High Sts., and on Second St. from Market to Bangor Sts.

Informed People

National Newspaper Week, being observed between October 1-8, with the slogan—"An Informed Press Means An Informed People"—leads us to assert that Pennsylvanians should be the best informed because Pennsylvanians and Pennsylvania newspapers make this Commonwealth one of the greatest newspaper states in the country!

The slogan adopted for this year's observance acknowledges the responsibility which has long rested with the press in providing freely, fairly and fearlessly news and information which will be informative to the public.

Newspaper men fully realize that a free press conscious of its duty is a powerful ally to good government. They know if the press fails in fairness and freedom, it can be the end of good government.

Our firm belief that Pennsylvanians are best informed has substance in the number of newspapers published and the total circulation of those papers.

Let's examine a few facts and figures about the circulation of Pennsylvania newspapers.

First of all, there are more daily newspapers published in Pennsylvania than in any other state. The 28 morning and 102 evening newspapers (130 in all) have a combined circulation of more than four million, second throughout the country only to New York State.

Now add to this the three million plus circulation of 15 Sunday newspapers and approximately another million for 325 weekly and semi-weekly newspapers. The total circulation: more than eight million subscribers!

But wait a minute. Multiply the four million a day by six days a week and it figures out that there are more than 28 million individual copies of newspapers printed in Pennsylvania every week. Shall we take it one step further? In a year's time (28 millions x 52 weeks) the total number of copies reaches the astronomical figure of 1,456,000,000!

A favorite trick of the statisticians is theoretically to lay the items considered end for end and startled everyone with the amazing amount of distance covered. Let's see what happens with the front pages only of these Pennsylvania newspapers. The average page is about 23 inches deep. It becomes only a matter of arithmetic to discover that if these papers, front pages only, remember, were laid end to end they would extend 528,000 miles... over two and one-half times farther than the moon is from earth!

Now of course if you wish to consider the miles of newspaper columns printed each year in Pennsylvania... hmmm... eight columns to a page, average 24 pages per copy—what's that? You say "uncle?" Then perhaps you agree that...

Pennsylvanians and Pennsylvania newspapers make this Commonwealth one of the greatest newspaper states in the country, and its citizens the best informed!

Fifty years after they were cached by Robert E. Peary, still legible records and a piece of an American flag were recovered by Canadian scientists from a pile of stones atop an 1,800-foot peak overlooking the bleak shore of Ellesmere Island at Cape Columbia, northernmost land in North America.

The Once Over

PRAYER FOR PRAYER WEEK

("This is Prayer Week in the United States. President Eisenhower has proclaimed it so by a United Proclamation and declared it of the utmost importance to our civilization that the prayer in the home be restored fully.")

Help us to realize, oh Lord, that the world today takes a heap of praying; that the maker of superficial, half-hearted, routine prayer just isn't trying. May we be intelligent enough to know that it is later than we think and that we are less convincing on our knees than we believe!

Give us the common sense to realize that while button-pressing dial-twistings and electric lever-switchings will give us the short cut and the swift result in nearly all activities of modern civilization, there is no such whirlwind approach to the Creator. May we in this terrifying age know that devotion on-the-run and prayer tailored-to-a-time-clock are not enough.

May the face of Barbarism leering at the world, as it did in the dark ages, stir in us the profound faith of our forefathers; may the spectacle of a pleasure-mad civilization ignoring the eternal truths, sneering at ancient concepts jar us out of indifference, resignation and the "What can I do?" mood.

May crime, loose conduct, pagan routines, sleazy patterns, the free ride, the gravy train and the life-by-jackpot phases of the American scene outrage us as they would have outraged our fathers, our mothers and the ancestors who went to distant chapel the hard way and wouldn't have felt they were extending themselves if they couldn't make it in a new super-eight.

Oh, Lord, may we cease taking the daily chronicles of depravity among our children with a mere shrug and a hope that things are not what they seem. May the symbol of Washington in a dark hour sustain the young as it once did.

Help us to see prayer as a ringing, singing thing and always know that without true depths of sincerity it can be a mockery and a sham.

So sharpen our nature that we may attribute the beauty of the dawn, the wonder of the day and the glory of the sunset to Thy hand, and feel a depth of gratitude for every hour without mishap, misfortune, sorrow and pain.

May we know that prayer without thought, meditation and fervor is like a phone call over a dead wire, and that he who prays selfishly is like a man talking to himself.

Help us to realize that if we have no time for prayer we are a poor judge of relative importance, ultimate goals and immediate needs.

Aid us in understanding that a home without family prayer is a fireplace without a glow, a room without warmth and a life without radiance.

Give us the wisdom fully to understand that the world is close to destruction through a disregard for all the higher concepts of all religions; that mere lip service to the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount is largely responsible for the horrifying waves of crime, disorder, tawdry routines of living, the debasement of the kids in our own land and the spreading hatreds.

Above all, give us freedom from hypocrisy, lukewarmness and the casual attitude in matters of faith. How shabby, shifty and unworthy must man look in Thy sight, even when giving him all the benefits of the doubt? May we know as never before that man in his current plight will take a lot of praying for, that every prayer helps, that his own prayer is needed, and that he had better make it good! Amen.

Some letters to this column differ with the contention that the crime routines poured into American homes by TV and radio and point out that in past generations the kids always had the crime blueprints in the dime novels. Yes, but the toughies and killers of the dime novels didn't have the sponsorship of America's greatest corporations, weren't portrayed by the most glamorous personalities in the American scene and weren't accepted as perfectly routine for visit to home and bedside...

There was never the family circle acceptance and general exploitation of hoodlumism that has been produced as a result of TV... We went for Nick Carter and all the dime-novel heroes, but we knew it was disapproved, not glorified by any responsible adults anywhere... Not until today have the small fry had the hoods pictured, played up big and dishied out, matinee and evening, with the adults yawning and occasionally chirping, "I wonder what's happening to the kiddies."

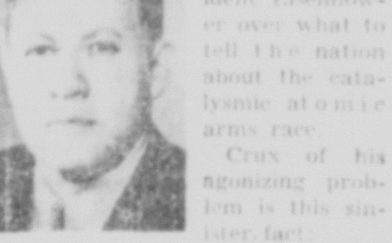

CALIFORNIA'S LOSS, NATION'S GAIN!

Robert S. Allen Reports

Russia, In Effect, Gains Atomic Parity With U.S.

Washington — A fearful dilemma was behind that grave concern voiced at his press conference by President Eisenhower over what to tell the nation about the catalytic atomic arms race.

Russia, in effect, has attained atomic parity with the U.S.

In numbers, variety and the destructive power of its atomic weapons, this country still has a lead of 18 to 24 months. The U.S. A-bomb stockpile is now measured in destructive power in megatons instead of kilotons.

For example: Hiroshima was destroyed by an A-bomb equal to 60,000 tons of TNT. The U.S. now has weapons with the destructive force of many millions of tons of TNT. That isn't all. These mass annihilators have been perfected to where they can be delivered by a jet fighter-bomber.

It is possible to disclose that this country has one immensely destructive atomic weapon that is only 11 inches in length.

But while the U.S. is far superior numerically in atomic arms to the Reds, the latter have reached the dread point where they have the capability of unleashing an atomic assault that could prostrate this country.

The Kremlin cars now possess the atomic bombs and carriers which could annihilate every sizable population and production center in America.

This appalling possibility is approximately two years ahead of expectations. On the basis of previous information and calculations, it was estimated that Russia would attain atomic parity by 1955 or 1956. The Communists have it now.

That was the soul-shriveling discovery from the Red's recent hydrogen device was more powerful and advanced than the one we detonated at Eniwetok last year. The Russian hydrogen weapon demonstrated conclusively that they have atomic parity with the U.S.

This one development has upset the whole balance of military power throughout the world.

The debate—That is the titanic dilemma the President is deliberating in his inner councils.

His "team" is sharply divided on what should be done and said about it.

One group is urging he "speak frankly and realistically" to the country. Prominent among them is Dr. Mervin Kelly, head of the noted Bell Laboratories and the President's personal adviser on this supreme problem.

Dr. Kelly contends the President's popularity is so powerful that he can prevail on Congress to vote the kind of defenses necessary to meet the new Red threat.

Dr. Kelly plan calls for expenditure of around $2,000,000,000 over a period of years to build up a continental system of safeguards in depth.

A key feature of these defenses would be a warning system based on a new and much more effective type of radar.

Dr. Kelly holds that these new protective measures can be constructed without appreciably increasing the already huge military budget. Most of the necessary money can be obtained, he asserts, by diverting it from other armament spending.

On this major point, he and the opposing group see eye-to-eye.

Prominent among them are Treasury Secretary George Humphrey and Budget Director Joseph Dodge, whom the President rates as among his ablest and most trusted lieutenants. The towering former Cleveland industrialist and leading Detroit banker are strongly urging the President to be sure of where he is headed before he addresses the nation.

At one White House discussion, Humphrey argued that the "main administrative answers to this problem" must be decided before the President talks, or certain elements may seize the occasion to force extravagant defense expenditures "which could easily wreck the country's economy."

The President voiced hearty accord with this view.

That is why he is still weighing what to do and say after studying more than 15 drafts of the speech he plans to make to the nation—and the world.

New Taxes—The new excise tax Treasury experts are eyeing would hit soft drinks, clothing, furniture, china and hotel rentals.

That was indicated in a memorandum the Treasury sent by members of the House Ways and Means Committee, which originates all tax legislation. The unpublished document is for the purpose of getting the reactions of these influential committees on extension of the already long list of excise-taxed items.

The memo also disclosed that the Treasury is studying the question of boosting existing taxes on liquor, tobacco, jewelry, luggage and furs.

The Treasury communication makes it very clear that the Administration has no intention of permitting expiration of the excise taxes that are scheduled to end next April. Says the memorandum, "This revenue is essential for the urgent needs of the government."

George Sokolsky Says...

Danger Is That Pot Of History Boils And Those Not Vigilant Lose Freedom

There comes a time with all people when they weary of the incessant discussion of the same things, the same ideas, the same names. They find the yak - yak of politics deafening and no longer impressive. They refuse to be frightened by those who view with alarm; they are no longer overpowered by those who see only a rosy prospect. They want to tend to their own little affairs which, if they are pleasant, add to the joy of living; if they are sad and tragic, are within the bosom of the family.

This seems to be such a time. There is less fighting anywhere on Earth than we have become accustomed to. The fear of losing sons is, for the moment, over. You look at the agenda of the General Assembly of the United Nations: it is the same as last year's and as the year before that. The same subjects. The same speeches.

So, we are still discussing the subject of the Korean truce. For 25 months it was discussed at Panmunjom, now it is being discussed at the United Nations; soon it might be discussed at some conference. Most people turn from the whole subject and wonder whether they might not just as well wait until something conclusive happens.

Who is right? The Mongols

under the banners of Genghis Khan, but they did not know that they were the pawns of history. They marched; they killed; they conquered; they died. They never knew why. But we are supposed to be literate, if not educated. We should be able to understand what we are about. We have a government of our own choice, responsible to us. We are in control of our own money, or we believe that we are. We vote at elections over high principles and great issues.

Yet, we are often mastered by the course of events and unless the pressure is too great upon us, we seek to escape the consequences of the pressures. We escape in pleasures; sometime we even try to escape in ignorance—in an avoidance of the facts. In an acceptance of what we hope may be true, of what we desire should be true. We call that wishful thinking, but it is something more serious than that. It is an instinctive reaction to what cannot be understood because much of it does not make sense.

A people, like the Americans, who have developed a great civilization by the use of common sense, find it hard to believe that what does not make sense is true. For instance, every American knows that the United States does not want to conquer any country on Earth; then why should Russia want to harm the United States? It sounds unbelievable. And the same thing is true about most of the great issues that face our country. Why should the British or the French be antagonistic to us when we have done so much for them? Many Americans simply will not believe that it is true until something happens to excite them. But soon our people subside and turn to what is more pleasant to think and talk about. We are a cheerful people.

I do not wish to give the impression that any of this is right or wrong. Who really knows? Does everybody have to be a politician or an expert or an authority? Some of us devote our lives to the study of these great subjects, and we know that no matter how much work we do to understand historic forces, there are so many factors that may escape us—and some of them are crucial.

Napoleon lost an empire because it rained. Today, we have meteorologists to tell us when it is going to rain, but the Germans miscalculated on the atom bomb. We got it first, although it looked as though they would beat us in that race. But we did not know—and therefore all calculations have been wrong—that little guys like the Rosenbergs had already stolen it from us. It is little things that none of us knows that often count most.

But there is a danger in this almost fatalistic attitude. The danger is that the pot of history is always boiling and those who are not vigilant in the defense of their civilization lose it. That has happened too often not to be wholly true.

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

When Major General William F. Dean was released by his Communist captors after three years of harsh treatment, one of the newsmen asked him what most uplaid him during those years of misery.

"I never felt sorry for myself," replied the general, "and that's what licked it. Self-pity whips more people than anything else."

This statement should be repeated in large type, framed and hung up in thousands of homes, offices and factories where feeling self-pity is making life miserable for all concerned.

There is the fellow who complains that life has been so cruel to him. The whole world is against him. His boss doesn't pay him enough money and overworks him. There is the wife who feels so sorry for herself because she can't get enough new dresses and hairdos.

There is the daughter of the house who whines because she isn't permitted to stay out until three in the morning six nights a week. There is the son who thinks that things have come to a terrible pass because he isn't allowed to use his father's car to show off.

Then, of course, there are the oh, so many near-sick and imaginary-sick who lie all around the house, wallow in their handicap, want all kinds of special services and become a burden to everyone around them.

You find these self-pityers not only in the home, but in every office, every shop, every store.

Not long ago I worked with a man who staved himself into a terrific tizzy because the boss wouldn't give him an air-cooling equipment for his office. He developed a heart condition and eventually died from it.

I have seen violent scraps between people about such trifles as who was going to have the desk next to the window. They went to the office manager about it, and the girl who lost, quit her job, couldn't get another one, and made herself so unhappy and became so cantankerous that she will probably remain an old maid for the rest of her life.

I haven't much use for those television programs where people come on the screen with their six or seven children and pour out their woes to the whole world.

But I saw one case that really touched my heart. The fellow was a war veteran from Brooklyn. He had been a prisoner in Korea and wanted to win some money to go into business. His father was with him, but he couldn't afford to give his boy the money.

The two were very close to each other. When the boy was sent overseas, the father took a half-dollar piece, split it in two and put little chains on the two pieces.

All during the war they kept those pieces around their necks. The one the soldier wore had the word "Liberty" on it. The father's inscription was "In God We Trust." Look at a half-dollar piece some time and see for yourself.

"My piece made me put up with all I suffered. I never forgot that 'Liberty' is what we are fighting for and I knew that I'd come through—for my father's sake."

"And I know my boy would come back to me," said the father. "Whenever I began to doubt, I looked at that inscription 'In God We Trust.'"

Try and Stop Me

Author and artist Ludwig Bemelmans visited darkest Ecuador in search of background material for a new book. He was lurching in a dubious village cafe when a villainous looking character frightened him to death by lurching into the seat next to him and demanding two bottles of the native equivalent of liquid dynamite. Suddenly the desperado spied a battered old copy of a fashionable New York magazine and pounced on it. He turned to the lead article and began mumbling the words laboriously to himself. Then he was on his feet, bellowing with rage. "Those yanqui editors!" he roared. "They've cut out my best lines again!"

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Halterman (Lowry-Martin)

Miss Hartzell Is Bride In Fall Wedding

An early fall wedding was held at the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church Saturday, October 3, at 3 p.m. when Miss Vivian Janet Hartzell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair H. Hartzell, 516 North Courtland Street, East Stroudsburg, became the bride of William J. Halterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Halterman, 24 Fetherman Street, Stroudsburg.

Rev. Harold C. Eaton performed the double ring ceremony. Ernest Michelfelder was organist and Dorell Mader was soloist. Mr. Mader sang "Because" and "Through the Years," and during the wedding prayers, Mr. Mader sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of slipper satin trimmed with chantilly lace, with a lace illusion neckline and tiny scalloped collar, long lace sleeves and light fitting bodice. A lace panel extended the length of the full skirt which flowed to a long circular train in back. Her lace appliqued fingertip veil was attached to a cap crown of lace, trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Constance Nevel of Jackson, Michigan, sister of the bride, was attired in an aqua gown of nylon tulle over tulle with matching headpiece and mitts. She carried a colonial bouquet of matching flowers.

Miss Ruth Van Why and Miss Patricia Hartzell, another sister, both of East Stroudsburg, acted as bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of pink nylon tulle over tulle with bolero jackets. Their accessories were picture hats and matching pink mitts. They carried colonial bouquets of matching flowers.

The church was decorated with bouquets of snapdragons and pom poms. Bows with flowers decorated the pews.

Roy Lesonsie of Stroudsburg, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Graydon Nevel of Jackson, Michigan, and Robert Felker, of Stroudsburg.

The bride's mother wore a dress of blue changeable tulle with black accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother wore a black dress with a lace bodice with black accessories. She wore a corsage of white rosebuds.

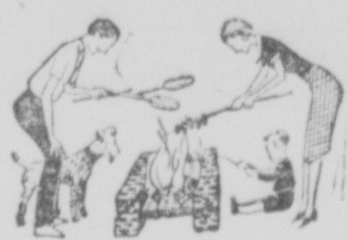

A reception was held at the Mt. Tom Inn following the ceremony for approximately 100 guests. A three-tiered wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom was placed on the bride's table. The bride's table was centered with a bouquet of fall flowers.

Immediately after the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Halterman left on a wedding trip to the mid-west states. For traveling, the bride wore a dark blue dress with red accessories. She wore a corsage of red rosebuds. They will make their home at their newly furnished apartment at 450 Shook, Avenue, Stroudsburg.

The bride was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School and is employed in the office of Shawnee Press, Inc. The bridegroom attended Stroudsburg High School and is employed at the Art Metal Works, Inc.

Lydia Circle Meeting
The Lydia Circle of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church will meet on Wednesday night at 7:45 at the home of Mrs. Clifford Cramer, 125 Berwick Heights Road, East Stroudsburg.

Woman's Club Program Stars Mrs. Gillam At Luncheon

The Woman's Club, 175 strong, yesterday opened the club year with a luncheon held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel with Cornelia Stabler's play-length monologue, "It's Curtain Time," as the featured presentation.

In her hour-and-a-half dramatization, Cornelia Stabler Gillam was five different characters in as many scenes and then returned twenty years older in one of the roles. They ranged from an aged grandmother to a brash young actress, from a French sophisticate to a capable secretary.

Humor, pathos and tragedy mingled in her presentation, and her transformations were so successful that the continuity of the story seemed peopled by a whole cast. She was presented by Mrs. Claude Leister, program chairman.

Golden masks of Tragedy and Comedy formed the background for the speaker's table, and the placards were stage sets, in keeping with the program theme.

Mrs. Walter H. Caulfield, president of the Woman's Club, welcomed the members and their guests quoting from the state convention speakers in introducing the club year whose emphasis is to be "Assuming the responsibilities of Americanism."

She introduced the past presidents at the dinner: Mrs. W. Dalby Palmer, Mrs. E. H. Calkins, Mrs. Foster Minnie, Mrs. T. F. Rhodes, Mrs. C. C. Scholla, Mrs. William Webb, Mrs. George T. Robinson, as well as Mrs. J. C. LeBar, chairman of the Mansion House committee; Mrs. A. A. Holbrook, past president of the county federation, and Mrs. LeRoy J. Koehler, past vice president of the northeast district, and Mrs. John Sibley, president of the Junior Woman's Club.

Mrs. Edward C. Hess, vice president of the county federation, brought the greetings of the county Federation, and listed the highlights of the meeting held at Matamoras.

Tribute was paid to the memory of Mrs. Fred C. Fatzinger, a former officer of the club, and Miss Aimee V. Girard, a member of the executive board.

Mrs. John L. Rumsey was in charge of arrangements for the luncheon; Mrs. Eli R. Travis of tickets and reservations and Mrs. Miriam Wallwork, of the Bangor Club, is second vice president of the county federation. A combined reciprocity dinner with the Bethlehem Junior Woman's Club as hosts was announced for April 27.

New members welcomed at last night's meeting included Miss Jean Pritchard, Miss Germaine Frey, Miss Mona Fock, Mrs. Jack Hamm and Mrs. Herbert Dean.

Barrett The Auxiliary of the American Legion of Evans-Biltz Post met at the Legion Home in Mountainhome on Monday night. Mrs. Lydia Christensen was in charge of the business meeting.

Installation of officers was held with Mrs. Ruth Messersmith of Palmerton as the installing officer.

Rose Everett is president of the group; Lydia Christensen, first vice president; Lee Handy, second vice president; Josephine Meeks, secretary; Helen Miller, corresponding secretary; Edna Reisenwitz, treasurer; Bertha Muir, sergeant-at-arms; Eva Englert, chaplain; and Betty Fullmer, historian.

Refreshments were served by Lillian Shoemith, Bertha Muir and Edna Reisenwitz.

Brands-Kuntz Wedding On Saturday

Delaware Water Gap—Miss Kathryn Kuntz, daughter of Mrs. W. A. Kuntz, of here, and the late Mr. Kuntz, and George K. Brands, of Allentown, were married Saturday at 11 a.m. in St. John's Reformed Church, Fogelsville. Rev. J. A. Wolfart performed the ceremony.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heckman, of Reading.

After a wedding trip to Canada the couple will reside here with the bride's mother.

Friendly Class Outlines Work For The Mission

The Friendly Adult Class of the Fifth Street Presbyterian Mission held its first business meeting of the fall season at the Mission last Friday night. A brief "hymn sing" preceded the opening of the meeting during which several old-time favorites were sung by the group. The meeting was opened in prayer by the class president, Pierre Lake. The reading of the secretary's report by James Bradshaw and the treasurer's report by Eunice Reaser followed.

Volunteers will give ten minute Bible discussions at all future meetings. Herbert Pooley volunteered to give the discussion at next month's meeting. The class voted to furnish the softdrinks as its contribution to Mission Hall-oween Party. It was voted also that cleaning committees for the Mission should be appointed and that each committee should be composed of four members and should serve for a period of one month.

Other committees appointed were next month's refreshment and entertainment committees. Barbara Garis, Lois Barry and Mildred Kintner will have charge of the refreshments and James Bradshaw and Pierre Lake will provide the entertainment.

Refreshments were served by Eunice Reaser, Kay Neipert and Rhea Lake.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Lake and children Joan, Johnny and Ruthie; Mr. and Mrs. John Neipert and children Dorothy and Susie; Mr. and Mrs. William Barry; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pooley; Mrs. Gladys March; Miss Mildred Kintner; Miss Barbara Garis, Miss Eunice Reaser, James Bradshaw, and Missetainshrdtaoinshrdt.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

A rolling ball over second base and a hands up in the air gesture of despair by Roy Campanella drove home the fact to the borough of Brooklyn yesterday that the World Series was over, that the Yankees had won and that their beloved Dodgers had failed to win the fall classic for the seventh straight time. Billy Martin's ninth inning payoff single placed a shroud of gloom over the borough that has made the Brooklyn Bridge, Williamsburg Park and the Dodgers famous. It will take a wind of almost gale-like force to blow away that gloom that has settled over Flatbush and Bedford avenues and surrounding territory.

Brooklyn, long the spot for excitement, daffy doings and complete unpredictability as far as baseball is concerned, probably received its most crushing defeat in the long history of baseball in the borough yesterday, when the Yankees entered the record books with their fifth straight World Series title. This was supposedly the best Brooklyn team in history, the aggregation of players that had 105 games during the regular season and the organization that would certainly end the reign of the Yankees over the National League pennant winners.

For several moments it appeared as if all pre-season series predictions might come true, as sore handed Carl Furillo drove one of Allie Reynolds' tosses into the lower right field stands, with "Duke" Snider on base. This blow tied the game, clinaxed an up-hill fight all the way by the Dodgers and mended many broken hearts in the camp of the Bums. But, those Yankees, the collection of players that have a hold on baseball like a vise on a rusty bolt, had that something they always have to win the big games and they won with one out in the ninth.

Martin's ninth inning payoff wallop was a tremendous crushing blow to the Dodgers, it sapped every bit of strength from the players and every last bit of hope from those who annually stick beside their beloved Bums. It was a crushing blow to Manager "Chuck" Dressen, who had guided the Dodgers to two straight pennants. It was heart breaking to Furillo, the National League's leading hitter who had tied the count in the top of the ninth, despite a badly damaged hand, and it was also a crushing blow to Jackie Robinson, Campanella, Snider, Gil Hodges and to all of the other Dodger veterans.

Brooklyn hearts have been broken before, many times, but yesterday's loss was probably the greatest defeat of them all. Fate has been cruel to the Bums, cruel enough to drive less hardy teams to destruction. Remember back in 1919 when Dick Sider homered for the Phillies in the 10th inning at Ebbets Field to give his team the pennant over a Brooklyn club that had come from far behind to almost tie the Quaker City lads? Remember in 1950 in the third and deciding game of a special playoff series with the Giants, when Bobby Thomson lashed that game winning homer? Remember last year when the Yankees won the Series in seven games?

Many die-hard fans insist on maintaining that the Yankees are lucky. I'm afraid that I can't agree on this fact, although all good clubs have a certain amount of luck that sticks with them through thick and thin. That is all good clubs but the Dodgers. Nothing the Bums do in the series seems to turn out right. Dressen will be second guessed for many months for his handling of pitchers during the six-game classic that came to an end yesterday. "Casey" Stengel on the other hand took several chances and only once did Ledy Luck fail to offer her helping hand. The one exception was in the ninth inning of the fourth game, when Martin was thrown out at the plate, on a play that should never have occurred.

Although it's tough to see a team like the Dodgers go down to defeat after time in the World Series, the winning hit couldn't have come from the bat of a niver guy. Martin is a modest individual who has fought up the ladder of success, rung by rung, with his hands, brain and heart. Billy wasn't a natural ball player, it took many years of hard labor before he developed into a star this season. He's a very likeable performer, who by his own admission was born on the wrong side of the tracks and had to scrap every inch of the way. He began his athletic career as a boxer, but now is the toast of the baseball world. Billy may have had a little trouble off the field this season, but on it he was one of the best second basemen in the business.

Martin's winning hit yesterday was his 12th of the series. It tied Billy with "Pepper" Martin, St. Louis Cardinals, for the most hits in a series. If the Dodgers had won yesterday's game Billy might have set a record today. "Pepper" Martin's 12 hits came in a seven-game series.

Yankees Win Fifth Straight Series On Martin's Hit

Carl Erskine started yesterday's game but in no way the trim fire-baller who struck out 14 Yanks Friday afternoon. The Yanks ripped into him for three runs and six hits in the first four innings as he tried to come back with only two days rest.

Stengel, only manager ever to win five straight pennants, let alone five Series, would have been second guessed if he had lost this game.

For Old Case lifted Ford, who was trudging along with a 3-1 lead after seven full innings. "Hank" Bauer had just yanked the fans to their feet with a sensational grab near the right field wall off Bobby Morgan's long pinch hit fly when Stengel made up his mind to call for Allie Reynolds.

The Chief scraped through the eighth, although Bauer had to back to the wall for one catch and had to run down the foul line to grab another. Jackie Robinson's single was nullified when Reynolds breezed a third strike past having Roy Campanella, who had accused him of hitting him with a pitch in the first game.

The ninth, however, was a different story. Gil Hodges went out but Snider, three times a strikeout victim of Ford, walked on a 3-2 pitch. Furillo also walked the count to 3-2 and then hammered a home run into the lower right field seats about five rows past Bauer's desperately clutching hand. Hank tried so hard to get back for the ball that he slipped and skidded as he lunged into the barrier.

Undisturbed by these heroics, Reynolds calmly struck out Billy Cox and Labine to break "Red" Ruffing's Series career record with 62 strikeouts.

Martin's hit, touching off an impromptu victory celebration enroute to the dugout, gave Reynolds his seventh World Series triumph, tying another mark held by ex-Yank Ruffing.

It seemed everybody broke some kind of a record. The clubs got 120 hits, a new high, and 17 home runs to erase another old standard.

Brooklyn, which never has won a Series, now has lost seven straight although their Series batting mark of .301 was among the best of all time.

It was the seventh straight American League series victory, making the standings read 33-17 in favor of the American. The National hasn't won since the St. Louis Cards whipped the Boston Red Sox in 1916.

The six-game hit mark broken by Martin was held jointly by Dave Robertson of the 1917 New York Giants and Monte Irvin of the '51 miracle Giants. But the all-time high for any length series is 12, held jointly by Joe Jackson, Buck Herzog, Sam Rice and another fellow named Martin—"Pepper" Martin.

Erskine was lucky to get out of the first inning with only two Yanks runs. The champs loaded the bases twice and sent seven men to the plate before Gil McDougald finally rapped into a double play, the Dodgers' first of the Series.

Woodling with a double that glanced off Furillo's glove into the stands.

Dressen's strategy called for an intentional walk to Mantle, filling the sacks. Martin shot a hard ball that skidded through Gilliam into short center field for an error, scoring Bauer with the second run and the bases still were full. McDougald's rap to Cox was turned into an inning-ending double play.

Ford's honor got Erskine off the hook in the second. Phil Rizzuto dinked a short single to left and Ford followed with a right field single, choking way up on the bat as he swung.

Woodling's fly to Robinson let Rizzuto walk home because Jackie never threw to the plate, just lobbing the ball to second base. It was at least as short a roll, the run didn't look too big. But after Furillo's muscle flexing, the goat's role was ready for Ford.

The players have not announced how they split up their money, pending official word from Commissioner Ford Frick. The Yanks will share $290,363.48 and the Dodgers $193,575.65. That represents 70 per cent of the entire player pool. The other 30 per cent goes to the second, third and fourth place clubs.

Even if the Yanks have given out $68,000 shares the cut will be over $8,000. If the Dodgers have no more than 32 it will be $6,000 plus or, if they cut in 38, it still will top $5,000.

The record money slice was Cleveland's $6,772.05 in 1948 and the largest losing share was $4,951.06 by the '51 Giants.

Erskine threw four successive balls to Bauer, loading them up again. Then came Berra's fly to Snider that found Ford absentmindedly counting his Series check. He almost could have reached home on his hands and knees, had he tagged up at the start.

When the Dodgers finally got a run in the sixth on Robinson's double, unmolested steal of third and Campanella's scoring infield

Bangor Junior Varsity Downs East Stroudsburg, 6-2

All Scoring Limited To Final Period

Bangor—A touchdown and goal line stand in the final period here at Memorial Park yesterday enabled the Bangor Junior varsity football team to score a 6-2 victory over East Stroudsburg's yearlings. The victory was the first in two outings for the Slaters this season.

The loss was the second straight for East Stroudsburg, a team that has yet to win a contest.

All scoring took place in the final period, as the home squad scored at the beginning of the quarter. Glen Heard opened the drive by running from midfield to the East Stroudsburg 25. John Williams streaked to the 13 and Lou Donatelli blasted to the seven and Heard to the three. On the next play Heard took a handoff from Williams and raced into the endzone. Tom Schlaevone's off-tackle smash for the extra point was snuffed short of the goal.

East Stroudsburg threatened to score in the last four minutes of play, as Dick Gray passed to Danny Marvin and John Bach, moving the ball to the Bangor 45 and 10-yard line respectively. Carter went to the four and Doug Dailey fumbled on the one-foot line, where Bangor recovered.

The entire Eastburg line converged on Heard in the endzone on the next play as he tried to run the ball out. The tackle enabled the Cavaliers to score a safety.

An East Stroudsburg touchdown in the second quarter was nullified by an offside penalty. Dailey had run for the six-pointer.

Bangor held an eight-five edge in first downs. All first downs except one came on the ground. The other on a penalty. The Cavaliers picked up two first downs on the ground and three on passes.

Stengel Talks Of Sixth Flag In Noisy Dressing Room

New York, (AP)—"Casey" Stengel, first major league manager ever to win five straight World Series, told admiring friends yesterday he has no intention of retiring—and praised his 1953 team by saying "this club can do it easy."

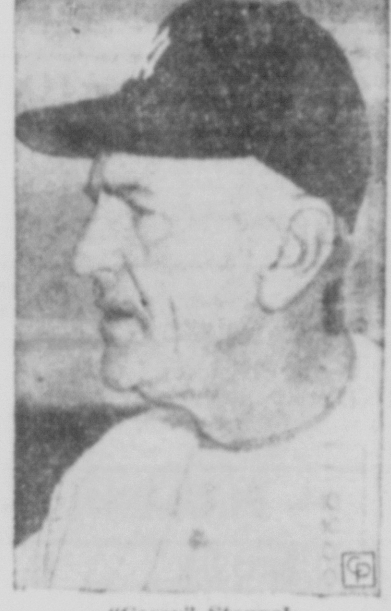

Yankee reserve and dignity melted in the lavishly appointed dressing rooms. "There was yelling and shouting, the incessant flash of photographers' bulbs, and general hilarity."

Stengel was the center of one group. Billy Martin, his spectacular young second baseman whose single in the ninth won the game, was the center of another. "I couldn't believe I did it," said Martin jubilantly. "It was a fast ball I hit. It was the biggest thrill of my life."

"This fall, this Martin, has become a beluga ball player," said Stengel. "You can try and take anything away from him and you just can't find it."

Hunch
Stengel revealed that he took "Whitey" Ford out of the game in the eighth, and sent in Allie Reynolds, his mighty Oklahoma, "because I wanted to."

"I thought maybe he'd get caught if I left him in. They had their big hitters coming up. I thought I'd send in someone new," Manager "Chuck" Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Walter J. O'Malley, president of the Dodgers were quick to offer their congratulations. "I wanted to win this one so

Sande Back In Saddle Again

New York, (AP)—Earl Sande, "The Handy Guy," returned to the saddle for the first time since 1932 yesterday at Belmont Park and finished third aboard Honest Bread as the crowd gave him a tremendous ovation.

The idol of the Roaring Twenties, who has won most of the important stakes races in this country including three Kentucky Derbies, will be 55 years old November 13.

In riding Honest Bread, Sande showed much of the skill that made him the country's leading jockey during the 1920's and the Belmont crowd of 18,228 cheered him from the time he appeared in the post parade until after he weighed out in the winner's circle.

Two Lengths

Honest Bread, owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs and trained by her husband, Hirsch Jacobs, was beaten two lengths by Mrs. M. F. Drinkhouse's First Copy. The Brookmeade Stable's Capeador, nine to 10 favorite, was second, beaten a half a length.

That there was great sentiment in the crowd was evident, because Honest Bread was listed at 10 to one in the morning odds line, but went off the second choice at $7.80 to $1 in the six furlong, third race.

Injuries Hit Local High School Elevens

Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High schools are hampered by injuries as they begin preparations for weekend football games. Stroudsburg plays Pen Argyl at Gordon Giffels Field on Friday night, while East Stroudsburg plays Lehigh under the lights at Memorial Stadium Saturday night.

The Mountainers, fresh from a 13-7 victory over Palmerton, will step out of the Lehigh Valley League for the first time this season on Friday. Right now the charges of Coach Jerry Stagnits lead the circuit with three wins and no defeats.

Stroudsburg began work yesterday in preparation for Pen Argyl, with four players on the doubtful list, Ben Miller and Jack Whittle, both on the sidelines during the Palmerton contest with injuries, worked out lightly yesterday.

Dick Campetto suffered a cut over his left eye that required two stitches to close during the first half of the Palmerton contest. Captain Don Garaventi suffered a knee injury in the Palmerton battle, but was more seriously injured on Sunday, while working on his car.

A piece of steel flew in Garaventi's right eye and had to be taken out by a doctor. Right now the hard running back is wearing a bandage over the injured eye. The remainder of the Stroudsburg eleven is in good condition.

Mike Palmisano, East Stroudsburg guard who suffered injuries to his back and side against Bangor last Friday, will probably miss the next two games, as he has been ordered to stay away from contact work for 10 days.

Harold White's hip injury was slightly aggravated during the Bangor contest, but the remainder of the squad is in good shape, except for the usual number of bumps and bruises occurring in a tough contest such as the one played with Bangor.

Athletic Group To Meet

A meeting of the East Stroudsburg Athletic Association will take place in the high school building today at 7:30 p.m.

All members of the Athletic Association are required to be on hand.

Serfass also announced that tickets for Friday night's grid battle with Pen Argyl, at Gordon Giffels Field, will be on sale at DeVivo's Shoe Repair Shop this week. Both adult and student tickets will be available. Serfass is also hopeful of opening two admission gates at Giffels Field this week.

Pocono League Ready

Pocono Bowling League peggers swing into action at the Pocono Bowling Center today, at 7 p.m.

Alleys one and two — Patterson-Kelley vs. Fabel's Gulf.

Alleys three and four — Transue Auto Body vs. C. G. Bush.

Alleys five and six — Keiper's Laundry vs. Analomink.

Alleys seven and eight — Kulp's Foundry vs. Faithful Class.

Bushkill Loop Rolls

Bushkill League action will take place at Harmon's Recreation today, at 9 p.m. Schedule follows:

Alleys one and two — Stump Jumpers vs. Up Valley Boys.

Alleys three and four — Little Ambers vs. Coon Hunters.

Alleys five and six — Busters vs. Fox Hunters.

East Stroudsburg School Board To Build Press Box

Construction of a "weather proof" press box was one of the main topics of discussion at the Varsity "E" Club meeting last night, held at East Stroudsburg High School.

It was revealed during the course of the meeting that the press box will be constructed by the East Stroudsburg School Board and that it will be reserved entirely for press and radio. Construction of the press box, which will feature a glass front and accommodate 10 people, will begin some time this week.

Two ESSTC Gridders Hurt In King's Tilt

Warren Hoefner and Ted Murray were the only casualties on the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College football team following Saturday night's 13-0 loss at the hands of King's College, before 9,500 people on the latter's home field.

Hoefner, number one quarterback, suffered a damaged hip against King's and will probably miss a couple days of practice.

Murray, although not injured during the course of last Saturday's game, developed stiffness in the right leg that also may require several days of treatment.

Practice

ESSTC began preparation for Saturday's tussle with Shippensburg, on the latter's home field, yesterday without the services of assistant coach George Ockershausen.

Ockershausen is confined to his home with an attack of virus. He is expected back at the job later in the week.

The remainder of the squad is in good shape, head coach Gene Martin reported last night, and began work on its passing attack yesterday.

West End A.C. Elects Officers

Effort—West End A. C. became the first team in the Pocono Mountains Baseball League to report reorganization for the 1954 campaign, as the club elected officials during a meeting here at the Pohopoko Hotel last night.

Frank Wernett automatically became club president due to the fact that he is commander of the West End American Legion Post, sponsored body.

John Wernett was elected vice president; Arthur Shafer, treasurer, and Ed. Doney, secretary.

A manager will be announced at the next league meeting, set for Monday, November 2.

The West End ball club plans a dance and cake walk at Chestnut Hill Inn on Friday, November 20.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

HEY—COME ON! BREAK IT UP!! AREN'T YOU GUYS COMING IN TO HEAR THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT?

I'D LIKE TO GIVE 'EM A REPORT FROM A SHOTGUN—THEY DON'T KNOW WHO THE PRESIDENT IS—OUTSIDE OF THEMSELVES, THEY DON'T KNOW ANY MEMBERS!

THE ONLY GUY THEY KNOW ABOUT HERE IS THE WATER WHO SWEETS 'EM OUT EVERY MORNING—THEY THINK A QUORUM IS A FULL HOUSE...

THEIR IDEA OF BROTHERHOOD IS A PAIL OF JACKS BACK TO BACK...

THE MOOSE OVER THE MANTLE DOES MORE FOR THE CLUB THAN THE GUYS—AND HE'S NOT AS MOUTH-EATEN?

DEAL THE CARDS!

YEAH—SURE—BE RIGHT IN—JUST A SECOND—WHAT WAS THAT LAST RAISE? I'M RAISING TWO BLUES...

IN EVERY CLUB... THE CARDROOM CLUCKS WHO NEVER COME UP FOR AIR...

THANKS AND A HOT TIP TO PAUL BANCROFT, WALKER GREEN, CALF.

Art Show To Be Held At Barrett

Mountainhome — A dozen members of the Barrett Art Group will hold their first exhibition and sale here Friday and Saturday.

The exhibit will be at the Gallery at the Forks here, between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. each of the days. Group members hope the exhibit will become an annual affair. Exhibiting will be Frances Skillman, Catherine Maxwell, May Price, Eda Brentini, Elvira Carlton, Violet Price, Rose H. Anderson, Julia Miller, Elizabeth McDohoney, Reid Price and Dr. Herbert A. Lorenz.

Sterling Strausser, Stroudsburg, has also been asked to exhibit with the group in order to round out the affair by providing a more modern type of painting.

Some of the oils by Barrett members will be given away as door prizes.

Under consideration as a winter-time project of the art group is the scheduling of free once-a-week art classes, with any area residents invited to attend.

If the art classes materialize, it will be in cooperation with the Barrett Woman's Club. Mrs. Lorenz is chairman of the club's fine arts committee, and of the fine arts committee of the County Federation of Woman's Clubs.

Youngsters Entertained

Thirty-six youngsters who aided the Monroe County SPCA at its tag day this summer were given an outing Saturday at the Wild Animal Farm on Foxtown Hill.

They were guests of Dr. Claude Leister, owner of the farm. Free transportation was provided by bus, with Al Hertz as driver.

Children on the trip were Richard Salvo, James Williams, John Noren and Ann Rau, Anna Marie Blair, Ruth and Susan Flory, Harry Phillips, Bob Palst, Frank Scagliotta, John Choberka, Mary Lou Hay, Sherry Carretta, Jim and Richard Reiger, Nick La Penna, Bernard Oppel, Michael and Kathleen Poortstra, Alfred Baxter, Kenneth Miller, David Smith, Susan Kester, Helen Kutish, Linda and Elaine Davis, Ruth Ann Savage, Arlene and Donna Cramer, Fred and John Baer, George Tough, Vincent and John Patella and Lucille Lawrence.

Dr. David F. Kohn, Mt. Pocono, will be out of town from Oct. 4 to Oct. 25, inclusive.—Adv.

PUC Denies Rate Boost To Utility

Harrisburg (AP) — The Public Utility Commission yesterday denied the entire $1,179,000 a year rate increase sought by the Scranton Electric Co.

The commission action ended a nine-month investigation of the proposed boost.

The PUC said its study showed the utility was earning a fair return on its investment under present rates on the basis of operations for the year ended Dec. 31, 1952.

The commission's vote rejecting the proposal was unanimous and sustained formal complaints registered by the city of Scranton and the Throop school district.

The commission's action means that rates of 88,000 consumers in Lackawanna, Luzerne, Susquehanna, Wayne and Wyoming counties will remain unchanged.

A pending merger of Scranton Electric with the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co., Allentown, had no bearing on the rate case, the PUC said.

Knepp Addresses Science Society

Thomas H. Knepp, Stroudsburg High School science department chief, spoke on "Flowers of Monroe County" last night before members of Sigma Zeta Tau, science fraternity at State Teachers College.

Mr. Knepp's address was illustrated with colored botanical slides. The group voted to take a field trip to "Back Hill Bog" on Oct. 10 after Knepp's address.

Dr. William G. Moore is adviser to the group for which Ted Shanski is president.

Handed Down Support Order

Eugene Hardy of New Jersey was ordered yesterday to pay $22 a week toward support of his wife and child, who live in the West End of Monroe County. The order was handed down by President Judge Fred W. Davis following a hearing on charges of non-support.

Tobyhanna's Third Victim Of Polio Is Hospitalized

Tobyhanna—Rosella Scheurer, 15, became this village's third polio victim, according to a report from Municipal Hospital, Scranton, last night.

Her condition was listed as "fair" and she was "resting comfortably."

She is suffering from bulbar polio, and is in a respirator.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Scheurer, left school here because of illness last Wednesday. She is a sophomore at Coolbaugh Township High School.

The girl was ordered to Municipal Hospital Sunday for laboratory tests and examination. The diagnosis of polio was confirmed by the tests.

Also at Municipal Hospital are Barbara Jean, 3, and James Keiper, 1, children of Mr. and Mrs. Emmanuel Keiper Jr., here. The Keiper youngsters were stricken a week ago.

Gamma Globulin, a temporary preventive, was obtained from Dr. R. Frederick Jones, county medical director, and administered yesterday to two infants here who had been in close contact with Miss Scheurer.

The injections were made by Dr. E. O. Headrick, the physician for Miss Scheurer.

I. Metzgar, Mrs. Elton P. Hall, Mrs. Harold Ingraham and Mrs. Harry Weiss, residential.

Birdsell reported he and Soukup had collected $3,000, about 40 per cent of their resort goal.

Exclamations of surprise from the audience greeted Stoner's report that he, Dellaria and the other members of the industrial committee had collected "85 per cent of the $19,000 industrial goal."

Stoner asked that members of the committee representing both labor and management be introduced from the floor.

Last night's dinner meeting—financed by Gerald P. O'Neill, owner of the Penn-Stroud Hotel, in which the dinner was held—was opened with an invocation by Msgr. C. A. McHugh, Mount Pocono.

Chest president J. Albert A. Groner welcomed the workers and introduced Baldwin. A group of girls, dressed in identical costumes with banners representing the ten Chest agencies, were introduced as the "Red Feather Kids."

Doe License Applicants To Get Letters

County Treasurer P. A. Rockefeller will start mailing letters within the next few days to applicants for doe deer hunting licenses. Each will contain an application blank for the license.

These are to be filed out and either returned in person to Mr. Rockefeller at his Courthouse office, or mailed to him.

In either case the applicant will receive his doe deer hunting license.

Mr. Rockefeller said yesterday letters are nearly ready for mailing to the 2,250 applicants for Monroe County's quota of doe hunting licenses. Some applicants have appeared at the office in person to complete forms and receive the license.

Others will get theirs by mail, pursuant to instructions contained in letters about to be placed in the mail.

Martin's Single In Ninth Gives Yanks Fifth Title In Row

Furillo's Homer Goes For Naught

New York (AP) — Billy (The Kid) Martin's record 12th World Series hit in the last of the ninth gave Casey Stengel's proud New York Yankees an unprecedented fifth straight world championship yesterday with a 4-3 victory over Brooklyn in the sixth game at Yankee Stadium.

Lashing back after Carl Furillo's two-run homer off Alie Reynolds tied the score in the Dodger ninth, the Yanks snuffed out Brooklyn hopes with a stunning comeback against reliever Clem Labine.

Hank Bauer walked on a 3-2 pitch and Yogi Berra fled out deep to Furillo before Mickey Mantle outsped a slow roller off the glove of third baseman Billy Cox. It was scored as a single and Bauer moved to second on it.

Martin, finishing the series with a .500 batting average, looked at a called strike and then slammed a line single to center that scored Bauer with the winning run of the richest of all Series. Duke Snider didn't even bother to throw to the plate as Bauer sped home, free and clear.

With the hit Martin tied the all-time record for most hits in a Series, 12, and established a mark for a six-game set. He won for his delicious Yank mates full pay shares of about $8,000 from the record player pool of $694,341.61.

This game, finished under lights because of dark, threatening clouds, saved its drama for the final moments. Until the ninth it looked to the 62,370 fans like a routine 3-1 triumph for the always-winning Yanks who now have a 16-4 record in Series competition.

Martin's hit saved Whitey Ford from going down in the record book, guilty of one of the most momentous blunders since Fred Merkle failed to touch second.

It looked innocent enough at the time when Ford failed to tag up after a long 370-foot fly ball by Berra in the second and was doubted at the plate. But as the game wore on that run loomed larger and larger.

After Furillo's tying homer, the run was big enough to sprout goat's horns on Ford's brow for the rest of the winter, but fortunately for the chunky southpaw, Martin came to the rescue.

Ford's futile dance of third, his return toward the base to find Joe Collins steaming in from second and his final desperate dash to the plate came when the Yanks had the bases loaded with only one out.

Ike's Brother Visits Home Of Kidnaped Boy

Kansas City (AP) — New mystery arose last night in the eight-day-old kidnapping of Bobby Greenlease as the banker brother of President Eisenhower visited the Greenlease home.

Arthur B. Eisenhower declined to comment after he spent 15 minutes in the home. It was his second call there in the last 48 hours. His visit yesterday aroused speculation as to what, if any, connection he has with the case.

Joseph Williams, president of the Commerce Trust Co., visited the home last week. At that time the 71-year-old father, Robert C. Greenlease, said he had made arrangements to get currency day or night to meet any ransom demand. Arthur Eisenhower is executive vice president of the same bank and an old friend of the Greenlease family.

The speculation over the Eisenhower visit arose after a vacuum of silence had covered the disappearance of the 6-year-old boy.

Turkey Wins Seat On U.N. Council; Poland Defeated

United Nations, N. Y. (AP) — Turkey won a seat on the U. N. Security Council yesterday with solid United States support against Russia's candidate, Poland.

It was the third straight time the Americans wrested the Eastern European seat from the Soviet Bloc. Turkey received 40 votes on the eighth secret ballot in the U. N. Assembly and Poland had 19. Brazil and New Zealand were chosen on the first ballot for the other two vacancies in the 11 nation council, with 56 and 48 votes respectively.

Turkey, Brazil and New Zealand will take their places on the council next Jan. 1 for two-year terms. They will replace Greece, Chile and Pakistan. They also will succeed on the Disarmament Commission which is faced with the problem of the hydrogen bomb.

Demands Free Elections

Washington (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said yesterday he would oppose any offer of a non-aggression pact to Russia unless the Soviets agreed to permit free elections in all their satellite nations.

Gen. Clark Charges Neutral Commission Assumes Balky Reds Desire Repatriation

Pennunjon, Tuesday, (AP) — Gen. Mark Clark today told the Indian custodian of 22,500 Chinese and North Korean prisoners that these men made their choice many months ago against returning to Communism and will stick to it unless coerced.

He said the custodians made a mistake if they assumed otherwise. The Far Eastern commander, demanding that "freedom of choice" be upheld in the true as it was by Allied bloodshed during prolongation of the war, sent a lengthy complaint to the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

Clark accused the five-nation commission—India, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Sweden and Switzerland—of operating on the false assumption that the men "actually desire repatriation."

Entering the boiling dispute over handling prisoners who have said they do not want to return to Communism, the U. N. Far East commander said these men must be assured "freedom of choice."

In a letter to Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian head of the repatriation commission, Clark said his command believes the 22,500 "made their choice many months ago" not to go back.

He reminded Thimayya that Allied blood was shed for more than a year while the principle of freedom of choice was argued prior to a truce and said the command would not compromise on it now.

For Clark, it was a farewell statement on the Korean situation. He leaves for the United States at 9 a. m. tomorrow, turning over his command to Gen. John E. Hull.

Clark said the command would not compromise on it now. The signal will be "fanned out" from the Philadelphia area after a theoretical "atom bomb" drops over Market St. there.

Air raid wardens of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg were alerted last night by their respective chief wardens, Clarence Seip and Louis Caramella for tonight's 11-county area A-bomb test.

Every one of the wardens is advised to carry his Civil Defense card, wear a white band around the arm and carry a flashlight. These are the minimum requirements for the alert which is scheduled to start at 7:05 p.m.

A time check will be broadcast by Station WVPO at 5 and at 5:15 p.m. today for the use of Civil Defense workers.

The time check is to enable all C.D. personnel to synchronize their watches in anticipation of the alert.

The time check will be relayed by WVPO from the regular Army time signal, said C.D. Assistant Director Paul Crawn.

About 6 p.m., C.D. will give a time check to fire companies by telephone.

Musmanno Raps Treatment Ex-GI Received At Hospital

Pittsburgh (AP) — Pennsylvania Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno compared treatment of a former GI patient at a state mental hospital yesterday to "medieval torture."

The high court set aside a $5,000 verdict against Mark Risser and Norman Haley, doctors at the Allegheny Hospital.

The Common Pleas Court of Lehigh County had awarded the verdict to a part-time trombonist, Reynold F. Powell, 27. The Pen Argyt man said he lost 60 per cent of the use of his hands due to "incompetent" treatment.

Judge Musmanno was the lone dissenter in the high court. In the majority opinion, Justice

John C. Arnold ruled "no competent medical testimony" was presented to prove the deformity was caused by incompetency.

Powell claimed treatment included a "wet pack immobility" wrapping him in a sheet and immersing him in water.

Justice Musmanno said: "The unnecessary or reckless use of violent measures which steal away physical assets from one already robbed of the treasure of a sound mind constitutes a misdeed which humanity abhors, justice condemns and the law should correct."

"Criticism of individual members does not condemn the whole class."

300 Community Chest Workers Challenged To Put Drive Over Top

Spurred on by an unflinchingly address from Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, Monroe County's Community Chest kicked its drive off to a flying start last night.

During his keynote speech at the annual Chest dinner, Rev. Campbell urged his listeners to remember that "the people have faith in the leadership of the Community Chest . . . but, more important, that people do have the money (to give)."

"This is a great cause," Rev. Campbell told his audience, reminding them that, in their participation in the Chest drive, some of the greatness would reflect upon the workers.

Campbell had chosen "No Cause for Apology" as the theme for his address to the nearly 300 persons attending.

Throughout the speech, the minister returned to the idea that the success or failure of the Chest campaign "depends on the workers." National and local publicity, he said, had paved the way for personal contact with prospective donors.

But, he pointed out, the most important feature of the remaining portion of the campaign is the "impact the worker makes" on the housewife, businessman or industrialist being asked to contribute.

"No apology (for the Chest) is necessary," Campbell said. "We represent a cause which is worthwhile. The Community Chest drive and our work in it is a drive with international overtones."

Pointing to the fact that, only in a democratic state would it be possible to carry on such a drive "without interference from the State," Rev. Campbell called the campaign:

"... a functional working of democracy . . . in a world which has heard too much propaganda and seen too few illustrations of democracy at work."

Then the speaker, pastor of First

Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church, turned his analysis to the religious meanings of the Chest drive.

Urging all persons involved in the campaign to recall the words of Christ to the disciples—"What do ye more than others?" — the speaker set forth two principles.

"No religion is worth its salt," he said, "unless it has two qualities—upward reach toward God . . . and an outward reach toward Man."

"No man's faith is complete," he continued, "until his outward reach toward Man comes into jibe with his upward reach toward God."

Apathy on the part of some local citizens brought a barbed comment from the minister.

"There is a type of ostrich citizenship in Monroe County," he said, referring to persons who "do not like to watch suffering" and refuse to accept responsibilities.

"We must be honest enough and realistic enough to realize that the need of the Chest's agencies 'is there,' Rev. Campbell declared.

"It is not a question of either giving to the Chest or not giving at all. God never said that the question 'Am I my brother's keeper' should be put up to a referendum."

The speaker then pointed to the great values of preventive work done by the Chest's ten agencies. "The curative job," he said, "is more spectacular than the preventive. Deliverance is always more spectacular than prevention."

"It's just as important to put a guard rail at the top of the cliff as it is to put an ambulance at the bottom of it. And there's a lot less bloodshed (when you use) the railing," he added.

Rev. Campbell was introduced by Chest campaign chairman M.S. Baldwin.

His address will be broadcast at 11:30 a.m. today over radio station WVPO.

Baldwin, during early parts of the program, also introduced "his vice-chairman, Mrs. Frank L. Patterson Jr.; Elton P. Hall, publicity (Continued on page twelve)

Farm Laborer Badly Hurt When Struck By Automobile

Saylorburg—A 22-year-old Nanticoke man, employed as a farm laborer near here, was seriously injured last night while walking on Route 115.

Leo Garren, 156 E. Noble St., Nanticoke, was taken to Easton Hospital after he was struck by an auto which State police said was operated by Austin A. Greenzwieg, Saylorburg.

Garren was walking "with" traffic, along the road, Greenzwieg's car, traveling in the same direction, struck the man from the rear, a Brodheadville trooper said.

Easton Hospital officials listed Garren's condition as "serious" after his admission there at 8 p. m. The laborer is suffering from a brain concussion, scalp cuts and cuts on the left hand.

Garren is employed by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Young, Saylorburg, RD., as a helper on their farm.

Last night Mrs. Young said Garren had been employed there since March 16. According to Mrs. Young, the laborer left the Young home at about 7:15 p. m., on his way to the Youth Fellowship meeting at Brick Church.

About 10 minutes later, Mrs. Young related, neighbors called to tell the family that Garren had been hit by a car.

State police said the accident occurred at about 7:20 p. m., opposite the Blue Ridge Drive-In theater.

Garren was taken to the hospital by the Wind Gap ambulance, Trooper Steve Sabin said, and was treated by Dr. Robert Dreher, of Wind Gap.

Investigation of the accident continues today. Police last night were attempting to contact Garren's mother, Mrs. Florence Everett, in Nanticoke.

23 Injured When Bus Hits Truck

Swedesboro, N.J. (AP) — A crowded Greyhound express bus crashed into the rear of a tractor-trailer truck and overturned yesterday on the New Jersey Turnpike, injuring 23 persons.

Nine others, including the driver, escaped injury. None of the injured passengers are in a serious condition.

The bus, traveling south on the toll road from New York to Washington, contained mostly servicemen returning to their bases from weekend leaves.

Surgeons Give Humans Arteries From Cows, Pigs

Chicago, (AP)—Four men are living with new arteries taken from calves and a pig, a surgeon announced yesterday.

The animal arteries are replacing their own damaged arteries in the chest, arm and leg.

It is a great surgical feat. For it marks the first time repair of a law of nature which has been blocking the goal of giving humans new hearts, lungs, or kidneys for their own tired, sick or damaged organs.

This law says no human will tolerate mature organs or tissues taken from another human or an animal. Your body reacts to destroy the borrowed spare part.

Color Picture Tube Developed

New York (AP)—A picture tube for color television said to be capable of mass production in large screen sizes at low cost was announced yesterday by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

A spokesman estimated that by late 1955 the CBS color tube in mass production would cost about 30 per cent more than a black and white picture tube of comparable size.

Earl Warren Becomes 14th Chief Justice

Washington (AP) — In a simple ceremony witnessed by President Eisenhower and a host of other dignitaries, Earl Warren became the 14th chief justice of the United States yesterday.

Right hand uplifted, and his 6 feet 2 frame cloaked for the first time in a black judicial robe, the former governor of California vowed he would uphold the Constitution and administer justice under law to rich and poor alike.

Then at 12:07 p.m., with an air of genial assurance, Warren took his place behind the high Supreme Court bench—holder of the highest judicial office in the land, inheritor of the mantle of John Marshall, Roger Taney and Charles Evans Hughes.

Warren became the second Republican — Justice Burton is the other one — and the only Californian on the court. He is the first justice to be named by a Republican president since the late Benjamin Cardozo ascended the bench in 1932.

In the sun-filled courtyard outside the glistening white Supreme Court Building, the flag of the United States flew at half-staff in memory of the chief justice Warren succeeded, the late Fred M. Vinson.

Eisenhower Invokes Law First Time

New York (AP) — A multi-million-dollar waterfront strike ended last night after paralyzing East Coast shipping for five days. More than 100 vessels were tied up from Maine to Virginia.

President Eisenhower used the Taft-Hartley law for the first time since he took office to choke off the strike of 60,000 longshoremen in 12 East-coast ports. Its cost to the maritime industry was estimated at 7½ million dollars — 1½ millions a day.

Patrick J. Connolly, executive vice president of the striking International Longshoremen's Assn., said time is too short for a return to work in the morning.

"I can get the men back to work tomorrow night for the 7 o'clock shift and Wednesday morning," he said. "I will order them back as quickly as I can."

His promise brought an uneasy truce to the piers but no prospect of real peace.

Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld ordered the strike ended when he paved the way for an 80-day cooling-off period that expires Christmas Eve.

"If the strike is permitted to continue . . . it will imperil the national health and safety," ruled Weinfeld in his Taft-Hartley law injunction.

He said the strike posed a threat to the nation's defense production and its shipments of food abroad — including the propaganda — rich food package shipments to Communist-held East Germany.

The I.L.A. kicked out of the AFL, rent by civil war, and fighting for its life, called the strike Oct. 1, ostensibly over a wage dispute with 170 East Coast shippers. Underlying the walkout, however, was a bitter struggle for dock control between the rackets-infected I.L.A. and a newly chartered AFL dock union.

It was the first big East Coast dock strike since the autumn of 1951 when a billion dollar wildcat strike lasted for 25 days.

No dry cargo vessels were handled by longshoremen during the current strike.

About a dozen passenger liners made their way in and out of New York without benefit of tugs, since tugboat crews respected I.L.A. picket lines. The last of the big ships to arrive was the 35,000-ton Mauretania, which docked without tugs in the face of a brisk wind late yesterday.

Some liners, including the huge Queen Mary, put into Halifax, N. S., rather than risk being tied up in New York. It was the Mary's first visit there since the war. Her 1,834 passengers continued to their destinations by rail.

Judge Weinfeld's back-to-work order was in the form of a temporary injunction good until Oct. 15. The government was granted an opportunity Oct. 13 to argue for a permanent injunction. However, Judge Weinfeld's grave estimate of the strike made it appear likely he will favor a permanent 80-day injunction.

14th Child Dies In Old Icebox

Grand Haven, Mich. (AP) — A 4-year-old girl suffocated in an abandoned refrigerator yesterday, the 14th victim of such a tragedy in the United States this year. Three more have died similarly in Canada.

The tragedy here nearly claimed a second life.

Dead is Pamela Pfishner, daughter of Mrs. Glen Bolthouse.

In Grand Haven Municipal hospital is Lila Mae Carpenter, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carpenter. Unconscious upon her arrival, the child was revived.

Humphrey Says Costs Stabilized

New York (AP)—Asserting there has been "no runaway inflation" since the administration lifted economic controls, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey declared last night that the cost of living in this country has been stabilized.

In a speech at the 100th anniversary dinner of the New York Clearing House, Humphrey said the cost of living in the past year has increased only six-tenths of one per cent.

In contrast, he said, there was a 50 per cent jump, averaging 5½ percent a year, from 1946 to 1951.

Falling Tombstone Pins Child To Ground, Resulting In Fracture Of Her Left Leg

A child who was pinned to the ground when an old tombstone fell on her foot was among eight persons treated for injuries in the General Hospital dispensary, East Stroudsburg, over the weekend.

The child, Joan Dennis, 2, of East Stroudsburg RD 2, was visiting a local cemetery with her grandparents when the accident occurred. She suffered a fractured left leg.

Dorothy Morris, 715 Scott St., Stroudsburg, received severe burns of the right side of her face when a cleaning compound ignited while she was cleaning a stove Sunday.

Seventy-year-old Betty VanBuskirk, 14 Gilbert St., East Stroudsburg, was struck by a car backing out of a driveway Sunday. Miss VanBuskirk was riding her bicycle at the time. She suffered multiple abrasions of both legs and bruise of the right shoulder.

Gerald Shanley Sr., 519 Brown St., Stroudsburg, cut the tip of his left index finger and middle finger while working with a saw at his home.

A heavy concrete block fell on the leg of Thiel Feller, Stroudsburg RD 3, Saturday while he was working for Claude M. Westheiser. Feller suffered a fracture of the right knee.

Jackie Albertson, 2, of Stroudsburg RD 2, fell while playing, striking his head on a heavy flower pot. He received a scalp cut.

Another victim of a fall, Joan Miller, 9, of 39 Broad St., Stroudsburg, suffered a fractured left leg. Marjorie Bitterman, 11, of East Stroudsburg RD 2, was treated for abrasion of the right foot.

Thousands View Parade Opening Fire Prevention Week

11 Companies, Five Bands In Line of March

Thousands watched the county's first major parade of fire equipment last night.

Eleven fire companies and 27 pieces of apparatus were sandwiched between the prancing majorettes, cymbal-crashing high school bands and the shiny cars of officials.

The parade wound on schedule between the two boroughs, starting from East Stroudsburg High School about 8 p.m. and slogging on down the main streets of each borough to finish at Ninth and Williams Sts. in Stroudsburg.

Rain drifted down an hour or two before the parade, but lifted in time to keep the polished firewagons from getting soaked.

Spectators lined up all along the route of march, standing on the curbs, balancing on the bumpers of cars or looking down from house windows or porches.

Five bands—Smithfield School, East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, East Stroudsburg High School, Stroudsburg High School and American Legion—paced the marching firemen and color bearers through the cool night air.

After the parade ended marchers, firemen and students converged on Stroudsburg firehouse for refreshments.

The parade signaled the start of Fire Prevention Week in the Monroe County area.

Fire companies will be following through for the rest of the week with their own programs. Tonight at 7:30 Stroudsburg firemen will have open house at the station. The Pioneer Band will play.

LARRY HARDY'S loss of one arm at the age of 10 never stopped the Cresco man from progressing on life's path. Father of six children, Hardy never missed employment since the accident 56 years ago. Here he displays his work at Art Metal Works, East Stroudsburg, where he has been employed for seven years.

Larry Hardy Undaunted By Loss Of Right Arm

He was only 10 years old at the time, 56 years ago, but had it happened today Larry Hardy would still have an arm because of advanced medical-surgical treatment.

Larry was a messenger for the DL&W Railroad and was crossing cars at the Cresco station to deliver an official memo to his dad. It was 9 a.m. on St. Patrick's Day. The lad fell to the tracks and opened a cut above his right elbow.

At 4 that afternoon the family doctor amputated Larry's arm—without giving him a sedative in the bedroom at Larry's home.

And so the boy who had learned to write with his right hand started all over again, for his arm was gone and only a small stump remained near the shoulder blade. Larry continued his education in Barrett Township schools, determined to overcome the handicap and reach his ambition—a railroad.

In 1913 Larry joined the DL&W's permanent payroll as a gateman.

Later he was a switch tender and rode the train from Hoboken to Buffalo.

After 25 years another accident prompted his decision to terminate his railroad career. It happened in Scranton in 1938. Larry was caught between two cars and a bone in his hip was broken.

After his recovery, Larry held odd jobs until World War Two when he joined International Boiler Works. Seven years ago he accepted employment with Art Metal Works, Inc., East Stroudsburg, and has been on the payroll ever since.

Loss of one arm was no hindrance to the determined man who raised six children, all of whom are now married, and built three homes.

"There's no job I can't do," Larry proudly explains. At present he's a helper on a degreasing machine at Art Metal and carries trays in the production line. "Doing a good job, too," Bob Altmore, personnel manager, reports. Larry's wife Alida also works at Art Metal as a kick-press operator.

What happens to a man when he loses his arm? Well, Larry has had a full life, complete with active sports competition and a proven workman.

Larry drove truck, fired locomotive engines, does all the work around the house, including mowing grass, once worked nine months at Buck Hill "striking drill," which means he handled an eight-pound sledge hammer, pounding stakes into the ground "and never once hit the finger of a man holding the stake."

As for sports—Larry gained local fame with the Buck Hill Association team and played semipro ball for out-of-state nines. As a pitcher Larry tossed with his left hand and caught the catcher's return barehanded. "I even went behind the bat and caught a fall game one time—barehanded." His batting average was considered good, yielding the stick with his powerful, flexible left arm.

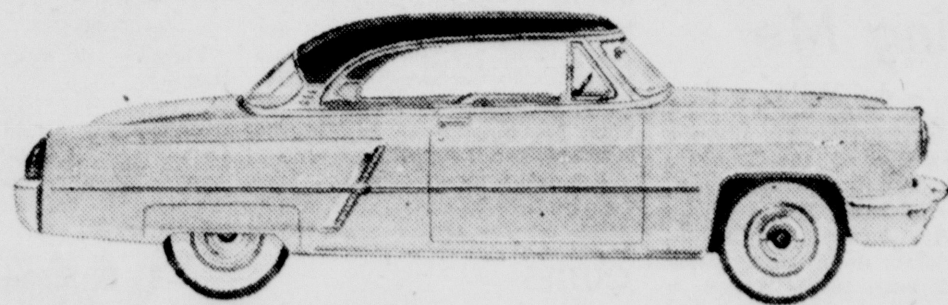

Larry's personal story is proof alone that handicapped persons make excellent workers. "Never saw a job I couldn't do," he repeated several times. And the work Larry's doing at Art Metal is more than satisfactory according to Altmore.

Art Metal, like many other industrial plants in this region, recognizes that handicapped persons are excellent workers. They are advertising for handicapped workers and especially are interested in hiring persons who have the use of both hands. So anyone paralyzed from the hips down has an excellent chance for positions with this firm.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at Kresge funeral home, Brodheadville, with Rev. James Laubach officiating. Burial will be at Pottersville Cemetery, Dotters Corners. Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Philly Urged To Continue Stream Cleanup

Mount Pocono—A resolution urging the voting populace of Philadelphia to ballot favorably on a $19,000,000 program to continue the clean streams program in that area was adopted here yesterday when representatives of Incodel convened for their annual meeting at Pocono Manor.

Incodel (Interstate, Commission on the Delaware River Basin) has been one of the leading factors in urging such action along the basin, and Philadelphia is the largest city in that locale called upon to execute such action, members reported.

The opening day's session of the two-day conference also saw the reelection of officers.

Renamed as Francis A. Pitkin, of Pennsylvania, chairman; and Elisha T. Barrett, New York State Assemblyman; Charles R. Erdman Jr., New Jersey Commissioner of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development, and Raymond B. Phillips, Delaware, as vice chairmen, James H. Allen was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Pitkin, in his annual report, related the action of the Pennsylvania Water Resources Committee. This group filed with Gov. John S. Fine their report—saying that Pennsylvania would not benefit under Incodel plan, suggesting the state work out its own program or try to develop one in cooperation with New Jersey.

Sessions resume this morning at 10. At noon Incodel's members will convene with members of the Lehigh Valley Flood Control Council to discuss various issues.

Proposal To Bring New Industry To Bangor Presented To Council; Plans To Employ 200

Bangor—A plan for bringing new industry to this borough was presented to council here last night by Bryden Strunk, a school board member.

He said he had been in contact with officials of an unidentified firm which was interested in setting up in the borough's old park area, and would employ about 140 men and 60 women.

Firm officials said the park area would be suitable for their purposes. They proposed that the borough grant them land in the park for building purposes, according to Strunk.

A member of council pointed out that the borough is acting as trustee of the park land. The borough could sell the land for a nominal sum "to the Chamber of Commerce or other interested individual," said George Plush. He added that council would first have to obtain court approval of such a sale.

Question by council, Strunk said he was "unable to divulge the name of the firm at this time." In answer to another question, Strunk said the firm was not the same one which is trying to enter Roseto.

Strunk said there would be no question of industrial waste or sewage for council to consider in granting the firm's request. Bangor Chamber of Commerce officials did "not know fully of this affair," he responded to another query.

Council President John Farleigh referred the question of granting a site to the planning committee, headed by Plush. Members are Burgess Hayden Pritchard and J. Lawrence Davis, borough solicitor.

Plush suggested that Strunk,

Chamber officials, and officials of the firm be included in a meeting. The meeting was set for 7 to 9 p.m.

Citizens Gas Co. asked council to consider a connection for natural gas between that company and the Bangor Gas Co. The request, from Paul Hart, was relayed by Burgess Pritchard.

It would be necessary to tear up some streets to make the connection. Borough ordinance requires that a license be purchased to do this street work.

The gas company asked that the borough grant the license without charge, and said it would repair the streets afterward or pay the borough $3 a yard if the borough preferred to make the repairs.

Council agreed that this would be contrary to an existing ordinance and turned down the request to grant the license without charge.

Council agreed on a vote of thanks to Frank Bozzelli, a property owner who at his own expense tore down two buildings at the corner of N. Main St. and Pennsylvania Ave., which were causing a hazardous condition by obstructing the vision of motorists driving south.

It was also agreed that the council would not purchase its own (borough) property from a contractor who removed it, then offered it for sale to the borough.

The property was a cast iron water pipe weighing about 600 pounds, which formerly lay under the sidewalk in front of a N. Main St. property. Contractor Patsy DeMaria picked up the pipe while he was laying sidewalk, and removed it to his business place.

DeMaria then told council president the borough could "have it

back if they pay for it."

Council instructed the secretary to write DeMaria ordering him to return the borough's pipe to town hall within 10 days.

Under consideration is a proposal for restricting parking to one side of Second St., from Chestnut to High Sts., and on Second St. from Market to Bangor Sts.

Informed People

National Newspaper Week, being observed between October 1-8, with the slogan—"An Informed Press Means An Informed People"—leads us to assert that Pennsylvanians should be the best informed because Pennsylvanians and Pennsylvania newspapers make this Commonwealth one of the greatest newspaper states in the country!

The slogan adopted for this year's observance acknowledges the responsibility which has long rested with the press in providing freely, fairly and fearlessly news and information which will be informative to the public.

Newspaper men fully realize that a free press conscious of its duty is a powerful ally to good government. They know if the press fails in fairness and freedom, it can be the end of good government.

Our firm belief that Pennsylvanians are best informed has substance in the number of newspapers published and the total circulation of those papers.

Let's examine a few facts and figures about the circulation of Pennsylvania's newspapers.

First of all, there are more daily newspapers published in Pennsylvania than in any other state. The 28 morning and 102 evening newspapers (130 in all) have a combined circulation of more than four million, second throughout the country only to New York State.

Now add to this the three million plus circulation of 15 Sunday newspapers and approximately another million for 325 weekly and semi-weekly newspapers. The total circulation: more than eight million subscribers!

But wait a minute. Multiply the four million a day by six days a week and it figures out that there are more than 28 million individual copies of newspapers printed in Pennsylvania every week. Shall we take it one step further? In a year's time (28 millions x 52 weeks) the total number of copies reaches the astronomical figure of 1,456,000,000!

A favorite trick of the statisticians is theoretically to lay the figures considered end for end and startled everyone with the amazing amount of distance covered. Let's see what happens with the front pages only of these Pennsylvania newspapers. The average page is about 23 inches deep. It becomes only a matter of arithmetic to discover that if these papers, front pages only, remember, were laid end to end they would extend 528,000 miles... over two and one-half times farther than the moon is from earth!

Now of course if you wish to consider the miles of newspaper columns printed each year in Pennsylvania... hmmm... eight columns to a page, average 24 pages per copy—what's that? You say "uncle?" Then perhaps you agree that...

Pennsylvanians and Pennsylvania newspapers make this Commonwealth one of the greatest newspaper states in the country, and its citizens the best informed!

Fifty years after they were cashed by Robert E. Peary, still legible records and a piece of an American flag were recovered by Canadian scientists from a pile of stones atop an 1,800-foot peak overlooking the bleak shore of Ellesmere Island at Cape Columbia, northernmost land in North America.

The bagpipe is regarded as Asiatic in origin and counted among the most ancient of musical instruments.

The Once Over

PRAYER FOR PRAYER WEEK

(This is Prayer Week in the United States. President Eisenhower has proclaimed it so by a radio message and declared it of the utmost importance to our civilization that the prayer in the home be restored fully.)

Help us, Lord, to realize, oh Lord, that the world today takes a heap of praying; that the maker of superfluous, half-hearted, routine prayer just isn't trying. May we be intelligent enough to know that it is later than we think and that we are less convincing on our knees than we believe!

Give us the common sense to realize that while button-pressing dial-twistings and electric lever-switchings will give us the short cut and the swift result in nearly all activities of modern civilization, there is no such whirlwind approach to the Creator. May we in this terrifying age know that devotion on-the-run and prayer tailored-to-a-time-clock are not enough.

May the face of Barbarism leering at the world, as it did in the dark ages, stand as the profound faith of our forefathers; may the spectacle of a pleasure-mad civilization ignoring the eternal truths, scorning the old virtues, kneeling at ancient concepts far us out of indifference, resignation and the "What can I do?" mood.

May crime, loose conduct, pagan routines, sleazy patterns, the free ride, the gravy train and the life-by-jackpot phases of the American scene outrage us as they would have outraged our fathers, our mothers and the ancestors who went to distant chapel the hard way and wouldn't have felt they were extending themselves if they couldn't make it in a loud super-eight.

Oh, Lord, may we cease taking the daily chronicles of depravity among our children with a mere shrug and a hope that things are not what they seem. May the symbol of Washington on his knees in the woods in a dark hour sustain the young as it once did.

Help us to see prayer as a ringing, singing thing and always know that without true depths of sincerity it can be a mockery and a sham.

So sharpen our nature that we may attribute the beauty of the dawn, the wonder of the day and the glory of the sunset to Thy hand, and feel a depth of gratitude for every hour without mishap, misfortune, sorrow and pain.

May we know that prayer without thought, meditation and fervor is like a phone call over a dead wire, and that he who prays selfishly is like a man talking to himself.

Help us to realize that if we have no time for prayer we are a poor judge of relative importance, ultimate goals and immediate needs.

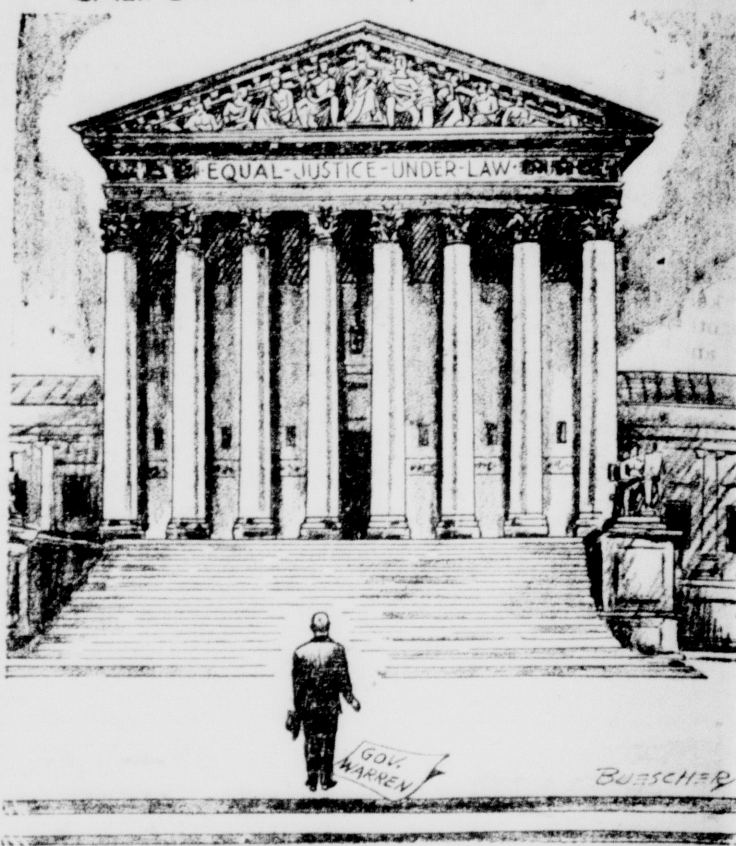

Aid us in understanding that a home without family prayer is a fireplace without a glow, a room without warmth and a life without radiance.

Give us the wisdom fully to understand that the world is close to destruction through a disregard for all the higher concepts of all religions; that mere lip service to the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount is largely responsible for the horrifying waves of crime, disorder, tawdry routines of living, the debasement of the kids in our own land and the spread of hate.

Above all, give us freedom from hypocrisy, lukewarmness and the casual attitude in matters of faith. How shabby, shifty and unfaithful most man look in Thy sight, even when giving him all the benefits of the doubt! May we know as never before that man in his current plight will take a lot of praying for, that every prayer helps, that his own prayer is needed, and that he had better make it good! Amen.

Some letters to this column differ with the contention that the crime routines poured into American homes by TV and radio and point out that in past generations the kids always had the crime blueprints via the dime novels... Yes, but the toughies and killers of the dime novels didn't have the sponsorship of America's greatest corporations, weren't portrayed by the most glamorous personalities in the American scene and weren't accepted as perfectly routine for visit to home and fireside... There was never the family circle acceptance and general exploitation of hoodlumism that has been produced as a result of TV... We went for Nick Carter and all the dime-novel heroes, but we know it was disapproved, not glorified by any responsible adults anywhere... Not until today have the small fry had the hood pictures, played up big and dish out, matinee and evening with the adults yawning and occasionally chirping, "I wonder what's happening to the kiddies."

CALIFORNIA'S LOSS, NATION'S GAIN!

Robert S. Allen Reports

Russia, In Effect, Gains Atomic Parity With U.S.

Washington — A fearful dilemma was behind that grave concern voiced at his press conference by President Eisenhower over what to tell the nation about the atomic arms race.

Crux of his agonizing problem is this sinister fact: Russia, in effect, has attained atomic parity with the U. S.

In numbers, variety and the destructive power of its atomic weapons, this country still has a lead of 18 to 24 months. The U. S. A-bomb stockpile is now measured in destructive power in megatons instead of kilotons.

For example: Hiroshima was destroyed by an A-bomb equal to 60,000 tons of TNT. The U. S. now has weapons with the destructive force of many millions of tons of TNT. That isn't all. These mass annihilators have been perfected to where they can be delivered by a jet fighter-bomber.

It is possible to disclose that this country has one immensely destructive atomic weapon that is only 11 inches in length.

But while the U. S. is far superior numerically to the Reds, the latter have reached the dread point where they have the capability of unleashing an atomic assault that could prostrate this country.

The Kremlin czars now possess the atomic bombs and carriers which could annihilate every sizable population and production center in America.

This appalling possibility is approximately two years ahead of expectations. On the basis of previous information and calculations, it was estimated that Russia would attain atomic parity by 1955 or 1956. The Communists have it now.

That was the soul-shrinking discovery from the Reds' recent hydrogen device was more powerful and advanced than the one we detonated at Eniwetok last year. The Russian hydrogen weapon demonstrated conclusively that they have atomic parity with the U. S.

This one development has upset the whole balance of military power throughout the world.

The debate—That is the titanic dilemma the President is deliberating in his inner councils.

His "team" is sharply divided on what should be done and said about it.

One group is urging he "speak frankly and realistically" to the country. Prominent among them is Dr. Mervin Kelly, head of the noted Bell Laboratories and the President's personal adviser on this supreme problem.

Dr. Kelly contends the President's popularity is so powerful that he can prevail on Congress to vote the kind of defenses necessary to meet the new Red terror.

The Kelly plan calls for expenditure of around $2,000,000,000 over a period of years to build up a continental system of safe-guarding in depth.

A key feature of these defenses would be a warning system based on a new and much more effective type of radar.

Dr. Kelly holds that these new protective measures can be constructed without appreciably increasing the already huge military budget. Most of the necessary money can be obtained, he asserts, by diverting it from other armament spending.

On this major point, he and the opposing group see eye-to-eye.

Prominent among them are Treasury Secretary George Humphrey and Budget Director Joseph Dodge, whom the President rates as his ablest and most trusted lieutenants. The towering former Cleveland industrialist and leading Detroit banker are strongly urging the President to be sure of where he is "headed" before he addresses the nation.

At one White House discussion, Humphrey argued that the "main administrative question" of this problem "must be decided before the President talks, or certain elements may seize the occasion to force extravagant defense expenditures which could easily wreck the country's economy."

The President voiced hearty accord with this view.

That is why he is still weighing what to do and say after studying more than 15 drafts of the speech he plans to make to the nation—and the world.

New Taxes—The new excise tax Treasury experts are eyeing would hit soft drinks, clothing, furniture, china and hotel rentals.

That was indicated in a memorandum the Treasury sent key members of the House Ways and Means Committee, which originates all tax legislation. The unpublished document is for the purpose of getting the reaction of these influential committee members on extension of the already long list of excise-taxed items.

The memo also disclosed that the Treasury is studying the question of boosting existing taxes on liquor, tobacco, jewelry, luggage and furs.

The Treasury communication makes it very clear that the Administration has no intention of permitting expiration of the excise taxes that are scheduled to end next April. Says the memorandum, "This revenue is essential for the urgent needs of the government."

George Sokolsky Says...

Danger Is That Pot Of History Boils And Those Not Vigilant Lose Freedom

There comes a time with all people when they weary of the incessant discussion of the same things, the same ideas, the same names. They find the yak-yak of politics deafening and impressive. They refuse to be frightened by those who view with alarm; they are no longer overawed by those who see only a roseate prospect. They want to tend to their own little affairs which, if they are pleasant, add to the joy of living; if they are sad and tragic, are within the bosom of the family.

This seems to be such a time. There is less fighting anywhere on Earth than we have become accustomed to. The fear of losing sons is, for the moment, over. You look at the agenda of the General Assembly of the United Nations; it is the same as last year's and as the year before that. The same subjects. The same speeches.

So, we are still discussing the subject of the Korean truce. For 25 months it is being discussed at Pannumun; now it is being discussed at the United Nations; soon it might be discussed at some conference. Most people turn from the whole subject and wonder whether they might not just as well wait until something conclusive happens.

Who is right? The Mongols

marshaled under the banners of Genghis Khan, but they did not know that they were the pawns of history. They marched; they killed; they conquered; they died. They never knew why. But we are supposed to be literate, if not educated. We should be able to understand what we are about. We have a government of our own choice, responsible to us. We are in control of our own money, or we believe that we are. We vote at elections over high principles and great issues.

Yet, we are often mastered by the course of events and unless the pressure is too great upon us, we seek to escape the consequences of the pressures. We escape in pleasures; sometime we even try to escape in ignorance—in an avoidance of what we desire should be true, of what we call that wishful thinking, but it is something more serious than that. It is an instinctive reaction to what cannot be understood because much of it does not make sense.

A people, like the Americans, who have developed a great civilization by the use of common sense, find it hard to believe that what does not make sense is true. For instance, every American knows that the United States does not want to conquer any country on Earth; then why should Russia want to harm the United States? It sounds unbelievable.

And the same thing is true about most of the great issues that face our country. Why should the British or the French be antagonistic to us when we have done so much for them? Many Americans simply will not believe that it is true until something happens to excite them. But soon our people subside and turn to what is more pleasant to think and talk about. We are a cheerful people.

I do not wish to give the impression that any of this is right or wrong. Who really knows? Does everybody have to be a politician or an expert or an authority? Some of us devote our lives to the study of these great subjects, and we know that no matter how much work we do to understand historic forces, there are so many factors that we cannot escape us—and some of them are crucial.

Napoleon lost an empire because it rained. Today, we have meteorologists to tell us when it is going to rain, but the Germans miscalculated the atom bomb. We got it first, although it looked as though they would beat us in that race. But we did not know—and therefore all calculations have been wrong—that little guys like the Rosenbergs had already stolen it from us. It is little things that none of us knows that often count most.

But there is a danger in this almost fatalistic attitude. The danger is that the pot of history is always boiling and those who are not vigilant in the defense of their civilization lose it. That has happened too often not to be wholly true.

Author and artist Ludwig Bemelmans, visited darkest Ecuador in search of background material for a new book. He was lurching in a dubious village cafe when a villainous looking character frightened him to death by characterizing into the seat next to him and demanding two bottles of the native equivalent of liquid dynamite. Suddenly the desperado spied a battered old copy of a fashionable New York magazine and pounced on it. He turned to the lead article and began mumbling the words laboriously to himself. Then he was on his feet, bellowing with rage. "Those yanqui editors!" he roared. "They've cut out my best lines again!"

Price Township Man Seeks To Block Sale Of School; Judge Reserves Decision

A Price Township resident moved yesterday to block the school district's sale of a one-room school and property there.

Testifying before President Judge Fred W. Davis in connection with the school district's petition to sell the property, Edgar LaBar contended the ground was to be used for school purposes only, according to the original deed.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Halterman

(Lowry-Martin)

Miss Hartzell Is Bride In Fall Wedding

An early fall wedding was held at the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church Saturday, October 3, at 3 p.m. when Miss Vivian Janet Hartzell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair H. Hartzell of 516 North Courtland Street, East Stroudsburg, became the bride of William J. Halterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Halterman of 24 Fetherman Street, Stroudsburg.

Rev. Harold C. Eaton performed the double ring ceremony. Ernest Michelfelder was organist. Mr. Mader sang "Because" and "Through The Years," and during the wedding prayers, Mr. Mader sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of clipper satin "rimmed with chantilly lace, with a lace illusion neckline and tiny scalloped collar, long lace sleeves and light fitting bodice. A lace panel extended the length of the full satin skirt that flowed to a long circular train in back. Her lace appliqued fingertip veil was attached to a cap crown of lace, trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Constance Nevil of Jackson, Michigan, sister of the bride, was attired in an aqua gown of nylon tulle over taffeta with matching headress and mitts. She carried a colonial bouquet of matching flowers.

Miss Ruth Van Why and Miss Patricia Hartzell, another sister, both of East Stroudsburg, acted as bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of pink nylon tulle over taffeta with bolero jackets. Their accessories were picture hats and matching pink mitts. They carried colonial bouquets of matching flowers.

The church was decorated with bouquets of snapdragons and pom poms. Bows with flowers decorated the pews.

Roy Lesoine of Stroudsburg, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Graydon Nevil of Jackson, Michigan, and Robert Felker, of Stroudsburg.

The bride's mother wore a dress of blue changeable taffeta with black accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a black dress with a lace bodice with black accessories. She wore a corsage of white roses.

A reception was held at the Mt. Tom Inn following the ceremony for approximately 100 guests. A three-tiered wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom was placed on the bride's table. The bride's table was centered with a bouquet of fall flowers.

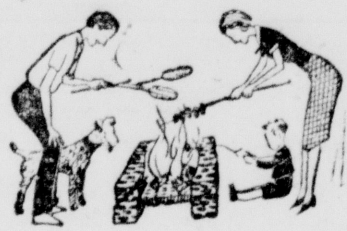

Immediately after the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Halterman left on a wedding trip to the mid-west states. For traveling, the bride wore a dark blue dress with red accessories. She wore a corsage of red roses. They will make their home at their newly furnished apartment at 450 Shook Avenue, Stroudsburg.

The bride was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School and is employed in the office of Shawnee Press, Inc. The bridegroom attended Stroudsburg High School and is employed at the Art Metal Works, Inc.

Woman's Club Program Stars Mrs. Gillam At Luncheon

The Woman's Club, 175 strong, yesterday opened the club year with a luncheon meeting at the Penn-Stroud Hotel with Cornelia Stabler's play-length monologue, "It's Curtain Time," as the featured presentation.

In her hour-and-a-half dramatization, Cornelia Stabler Gillam was five different characters in as many scenes and then returned twenty years older in one of the roles. They ranged from an aged grandmother to a brash young actress, from a French sophisticated to a capable secretary.

Humor, pathos and tragedy mingled in her presentation, and her transformations were so successful that the continuity of the story seemed peopled by a whole cast. She was presented by Mrs. Claude Leister, program chairman.

Golden masks of Tragedy and Comedy formed the background for the speaker's table, and the placards were stage sets, in keeping with the program theme.

Mrs. Walter H. Caulfield, president of the Woman's Club, welcomed the members and their guests quoting from the state convention speakers in introducing the club year whose emphasis is to be "Assuming the responsibilities of Americanism."

She introduced the past presidents at the dinner: Mrs. W. Doby Palmer, Mrs. E. H. Calkins, Mrs. Foster Minnich, Mrs. T. F. Rhodes, Mrs. C. C. Scholla, Mrs. William Webb, Mrs. George T. Robinson, as well as Mrs. J. C. LeBar, chairman of the Mansion House committee; Mrs. A. A. Holbrook, past president of the county federation, and Mrs. LeRoy J. Koshler, past vice president of the northeast district, and Mrs. John Sibley, president of the Junior Woman's Club.

Mrs. Edward C. Hess, vice president of the county federation, brought the greetings of the county Federation, and listed the highlights of the meeting held at Matamoras.

Tribute was paid to the memory of Mrs. Fred C. Fatzinger, a former officer of the club, and Miss Aimee V. Girard, a member of the executive board.

Mrs. John L. Runsey was in charge of arrangements for the luncheon; Mrs. E. R. Travis of tickets and reservations and Mrs. Millard Rice and Mrs. James N. Canfield Jr. of the decorations. The masks were the work of Miss Violet Clark.

Brands-Kuntz Wedding On Saturday

Delaware Water Gap—Miss Kathryn Kuntz, daughter of Mrs. W. A. Kuntz of here, and the late Mr. Kuntz, and George K. Brands, of Allentown, were married Saturday at 11 a.m. in St. John's Reformed Church, Fogelsville. Rev. J. A. Wolfart performed the ceremony.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heckman, of Reading.

After a wedding trip to Canada the couple will reside here with the bride's mother.

Friendly Class Outlines Work For The Mission

The Friendly Adult Class of the Fifth Street Presbyterian Mission held its first business meeting of the fall season at the Mission last Friday night. A brief "hymn sing" preceded the opening of the meeting during which several old-time favorites were sung by the group. The meeting was opened in prayer by the class president, Pierre Lake. The reading of the secretary's report by James Bradshaw and the treasurer's report by Eunice Reaser followed.

Volunteers will give ten minute Bible discussions at all future meetings. Herbert Pooley volunteered to give the discussion at next month's meeting. The class voted to furnish the softdrinks as its contribution to Mission Hall-Love-En Party. It was voted also that cleaning committees for the Mission should be appointed and that each committee should be composed of four members and should serve for a period of one month.

Other committees appointed were next month's refreshment and entertainment committees. Barbara Garis, Lois Barry and Mildred Kintner will have charge of the refreshments and James Bradshaw and Pierre Lake will provide the entertainment.

Refreshments were served by Eunice Reaser, Kay Neipert and Rhea Lake.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Lake and children Joan, Johnny and Ruthie; Mr. and Mrs. John Neipert and children Dorothy and Susie; Mr. and Mrs. William Barry; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pooley; Mrs. Gladys Marsh; Miss Mildred Kintner; Miss Barbara Garis, Miss Eunice Reaser, James Bradshaw, rs Missetainshrdutaoinshrdudat

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

A rolling ball over second base and a hands up in the air gesture of despair by Roy Campanella drove home the fact to the borough of Brooklyn yesterday that the World Series was over, that the Yankees had won and that their beloved Dodgers had failed to win the fall classic for the seventh straight time. Billy Martin's ninth inning payoff single placed a shroud of gloom over the borough that has made the Brooklyn Bridge, Williamsburg Bridge and the Dodgers famous. It will take a wind of almost gale-like force to blow away that gloom that has settled over Flatbush and Bedford avenues and surrounding territory.

Brooklyn, long the spot for merriment, daffy doings and complete unpredictability as far as baseball is concerned, probably received its most crushing defeat in the long history of baseball in the borough yesterday, when the Yankees entered the record books with their fifth straight World Series title. This was supposedly the best Brooklyn team in history, the aggregation of players that had 105 games during the regular season and the organization that would certainly end the reign of the Yankees over the National League pennant winners.

For several moments it appeared as if all pre-season series predictions might come true, as sore handed Carl Furillo drove one of Allie Reynolds' tosses into the lower right field stands, with "Duke" Snider on base. This blow tied the game, clinaxed an up-hill fight all the way by the Dodgers and mended many broken hearts in the camp of the Bums. But, those Yankees, the collection of players that have a hold on baseball like a vise on a rusty bolt, had that something they always have to win the big games and they won with one out in the ninth.

Martin's ninth inning payoff wallop was a tremendous crushing blow to the Dodgers, it sapped every bit of strength from the players and every last bit of hope from those who annually stick beside their beloved Bums. It was a crushing blow to Manager "Chuck" Dressen, who had guided the Dodgers to two straight pennants. It was heart breaking to Furillo, the National League's leading hitter who had tied the count in the top of the ninth, despite a badly damaged hand, and it was also a crushing blow to Jackie Robinson, Campanella, Snider, Gil Hodges and to all of the other Dodger veterans.

Brooklyn hearts have been broken before, many times, but yesterday's loss was probably the greatest defeat of them all. Fate has been cruel to the Bums, cruel enough to drive less hardy teams to destruction. Remember back in 1949 when Dick Sisler homered for the Phillies in the 10th inning at Ebbets Field to give his team the pennant over a Brooklyn club that had come from far behind to almost tie the Quaker City lads? Remember in 1950 in the third and deciding game of a special playoff series with the Giants, when Bobby Thomson lashed that game winning homer? Remember last year when the Yankees won the Series in seven games?

Many die-hard fans insist on maintaining that the Yankees are lucky. I'm afraid that I can't agree on this fact, although all good clubs have a certain amount of luck that sticks with them through thick and thin. That is all good clubs but the Dodgers. Nothing the Bums do in the series seems to turn out right. Dressen will be second guessed for many months for his handling of pitchers during the six-game classic that came to an end yesterday. "Casey" Stengel on the other hand took several chances and only once did Lady Luck fail to offer her helping hand. The one exception was in the ninth inning of the fourth game, when Martin was thrown out at the plate, on a play that should never have occurred.

Although it's tough to see a team like the Dodgers go down to defeat time after time in the World Series, the winning hit couldn't have come from the hat of a nicer guy. Martin is a modest individual who has fought up the ladder of success, rung by rung, with his hands, brain and heart. Billy wasn't a natural ball player, it took many years of hard labor before he developed into a star this season. He's a very likeable performer, who by his own admission was born on the wrong side of the tracks and had to scrap every inch of the way. He began his athletic career as a boxer, but now is the toast of the baseball world. Billy may have had a little trouble off the field this season, but on it he was one of the best second basemen in the business.

Martin's winning hit yesterday was his 12th of the series. It tied Billy with "Pepper" Martin, St. Louis Cardinals, for the most hits in a series. If the Dodgers had won yesterday's game Billy might have set a record today. "Pepper" Martin's 12 hits came in a seven-game series.

Carl Erskine started yesterday's game but was in no way the trim fire-baller who struck out 14 Yanks Friday afternoon. The Yanks ripped into him for three runs and six hits in the first four innings as he tried to come back with only two days rest.

Stengel, only manager ever to win five straight pennants, let alone five Series, would have been second guessed if he had lost this game.

For Old Case lifted Ford, who was trudging along with a 3-1 lead after seven full innings. "Hank" Bauer had just yanked the fans to their feet with a sensational grab, near the right field wall off Bobby Morgan's long pinch hit fly when Stengel moved his mind to call for Allie Reynolds.

The Chief scraped through the eighth, although Bauer had to back to the wall for one catch and had to run down the foul line to grab another. Jackie Robinson's single was nullified when Reynolds breezed a third strike past waving Roy Campanella, who had accused him of hitting him with a pitch in the first game.

The ninth, however, was a different story. Gil Hodges went out but Snider, three times a strikeout victim of Ford, walked on a 3-2 pitch. Furillo also worked the count to 3-2 and then hammered a home run into the lower right field seats about five rows past Bauer's desperately clutching hand. Hank tried so hard to get back for the ball that he slipped and skidded as he lunged into the barrier.

Undisturbed by these heroics,

Reynolds calmly struck out Billy Cox and Labine to break "Red" Ruffing's Series career record with 62 strikeouts.

Martin's hit, touching off an impromptu victory celebration en route to the dugout, gave Reynolds his seventh World Series triumph, tying another mark held by ex-Yank Ruffing.

It seemed everybody broke some kind of a record. The clubs got 120 hits, a new high, and 17 home runs to erase another old standard.

Brooklyn, which never has won a Series, now has lost seven straight although their Series batting mark of .301 was among the best of all time.

It was the seventh straight American League series victory, making the standings read 33-17 in favor of the American. The National hasn't won since the St. Louis Cards whipped the Boston Red Sox in 1916.

The six-game hit mark broken by Martin was held jointly by Dave Robertson of the 1917 New York Giants and Monte Irvin of the '51 miracle Giants. But the all-time high for any length series is 12, held jointly by Joe Jackson, Buck Herzog, Sam Rice and another fellow named Martin—"Pepper" Martin.

Erskine was lucky to get out of the first inning with only two Yanks runs. The champs loaded the bases twice and sent seven men to the plate before Gil McDougald finally rapped into a double play, the Dodgers' first of the Series.

Woodling with a double that glanced off Furillo's glove into the stands.

Dressen's strategy called for an intentional walk to Mantle, filling the sacks. Martin shot a hard ball that skidded through Gilliam into short center field for an error, scoring Bauer with the second run and the bases still were full. McDougald's rap to Cox was turned into an inning-ending double play.

Ford's boner got Erskine off the hook in the second. Phil Rizzuto dunked a short single to left and Ford followed with a right field single, choking way up on the bat as he swung.

Woodling's fly to Robinson let Rizzuto waltz home because Jackie never threw to the plate, just lobbing the ball to second base. It was at least as short a fly as the ball on which Woodling threw out Gil Hodges at the plate Sunday.

Holding back on his swing, Collins almost accidentally hit the ball in front of the plate. He received credit for a base hit and Erskine was charged with an error for a wild peg that sent Ford to third and Collins to second.

Erskine threw four successive balls to Bauer, loading them up again. Then came Berra's fly to Snider that found Ford absently counting his Series check. He almost could have reached home on his hands and knees, had he tagged up at the start.

When the Dodgers finally got a run in the sixth on Robinson's double, unmoored steal of third and Campanella's scoring infield roller, the run didn't look too big. But after Furillo's muscle flexing, the goat's role was ready for Ford.

The players have not announced how they split up their money, pending official word from Commissioner Ford Frick. The Yanks will share $290,363.48 and the Dodgers $193,575.65. That represents 70 per cent of the entire player pool. The other 30 per cent goes to the second, third and fourth place clubs.

Even if the Yanks have given out 36 generous shares the net will be over $8,000. If the Dodgers have no more than 32 it will be $6,000 plus or, if they cut in 38, it still will top $5,000.

The record money slice was Cleveland's $6,772.05 in 1948 and the largest losing share was $4-951.06 by the '51 Giants.

Bangor Junior Varsity Downs East Stroudsburg, 6-2

All Scoring Limited To Final Period

Bangor—A touchdown and goal line stand in the final period here at Memorial Park yesterday enabled the Bangor High junior varsity football team to score a 6-2 victory over East Stroudsburg's yearlings. The victory was the first in two outings for the Slaters this season.

The loss was the second straight for East Stroudsburg, a team that has yet to win a contest.

All scoring took place in the final period, as the home squad scored at the beginning of the quarter. Glen Heard opened the drive by running from midfield to the East Stroudsburg 25. John Williams streaked to the 13 and Lou Donatelli blasted to the seven and Heard to the three. On the next play Heard took a handoff from Williams and raced into the endzone. Tom Schiavone's off-tackle smash for the extra point was halted short of the goal.

East Stroudsburg threatened to score in the last four minutes of play, as Dick Gray passed to Danny Marvin and John Bach, moving the ball to the Bangor 45 and 10-yard line respectively. Carter went to the four and Doug Dailey fumbled on the one-foot line, where Bangor recovered.

The entire Eastburg line converged on Heard in the endzone on the next play as he tried to run the ball out. The tackle enabled the Cavaliers to score a safety.

An East Stroudsburg touchdown in the second quarter was nullified by an offensive penalty. Dailey had run for the six-point.

Bangor held an eight-five edge in first downs. All first downs except one came on the ground. The other on a penalty. The Cavaliers picked up two first downs on the ground and three on passes.

SAFE—Paul Gravel, Barrett infielder, is shown above sliding safely into third base in a close play on Sunday, at Reeders. Carl Butz is pictured taking a high throw in an attempt to make the putout. Umpire DiSalvatore is in perfect position to call the play. Barrett went on to win the game, 8-4, and the playoff series three games to one.

Stengel Talks Of Sixth Flag In Noisy Dressing Room

New York, (AP)—"Casey" Stengel, first major league manager ever to win five straight World Series, told admiring friends yesterday he has no intention of retiring—and praised his 1953 team by saying "this club can do it easy."

Yankee reserve and dignity melted in the lavishly appointed dressing rooms. There was yelling and shouting, the incessant flash of photographers' bulbs, and general hilarity.

Stengel was the center of one group. Billy Martin, his spectacular young second baseman whose single in the ninth won the game, was the center of another.

"I couldn't believe I did it," said Martin jubilantly. "It was a fast ball I hit. It was the biggest thrill of my life."

"This fella, this Martin, has become a helluva ball player," said Stengel. "You can try and take anything away from him and you just can't find it."

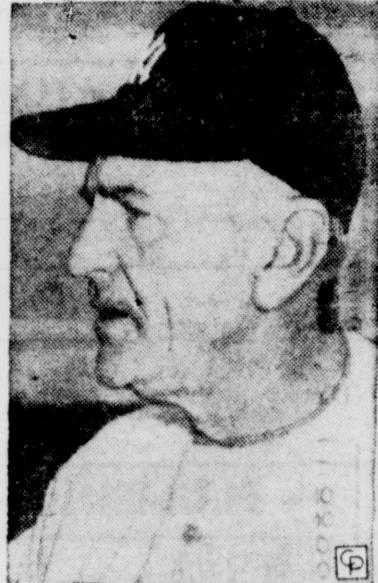

Hunch

Stengel revealed that he took "Whitey" Ford out of the game in the eighth, and sent in Allie Reynolds, his mighty Oklahoma man, "because I wanted to."

"I thought maybe he'd get caught if I left him in. They had their big hitters coming up. I thought I'd send in someone new."

Manager "Chuck" Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Walter J. O'Malley, president of the Dodgers were quick to offer their congratulations.

Sande Back In Saddle Again

New York (AP)—Earl Sande, "The Handy Guy," returned to the saddle for the first time since 1932 yesterday at Belmont Park and finished third aboard Honest Bread as the crowd gave him a tremendous ovation.

The idol of the Roaring Twenties, who has won most of the important stakes races in this country including three Kentucky Derbies, will be 55 years old November 13.

In riding Honest Bread, Sande showed much of the skill that made him the country's leading jockey during the 1920's and the Belmont crowd of 18,228 cheered him from the time he appeared in the post parade until after he weighed out in the winner's circle.

That there was great sentiment in the crowd was evident, because Honest Bread was listed at 10 to one in the morning odds line, but went off the second choice at $7.80 to $1 in the six furlong, third race.

Two Lengths

Honest Bread, owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs and trained by her husband, Hirsch Jacobs, was beaten two lengths by Mrs. M. F. Drinkhouse's First Copy. The Brookmeade Stable's Capcador, nine to 10 favorite, was second, beaten a half a length.

That there was great sentiment in the crowd was evident, because Honest Bread was listed at 10 to one in the morning odds line, but went off the second choice at $7.80 to $1 in the six furlong, third race.

Stroudsburg High To Stage Parents Night

Stroudsburg High School's Alumni Association will present a Football Parents Booster Night in the high school gymnasium tomorrow, beginning at 8 p. m., it was announced last night by Mahlon Serfass, association president.

Each member of the football squad is to bring his parents, both mother and father, to the affair. The meeting is planned to familiarize parents with the athletic set-up at Stroudsburg High, particularly in football.

Program

Equipment used in football will be displayed, rules will be explained, as will the school's policy on athletics. A film of one of the Stroudsburg High football games will also be shown. Parents will also meet the new coaches on the Stroudsburg staff.

Earl Groner, superintendent of Stroudsburg schools; Alfred W. Munson, principal; T. Manning "Cap" Curtis, athletic director, and Jerry Stulgaitis, head football and baseball coach, will speak briefly to the group.

Refreshments will be served by the cheerleaders following the meeting.

All members of the Athletic Association are required to be on hand. Serfass also announced that tickets for Friday night's grid battle with Pen Argyl, at Gordon Giffels Field, will be on sale at DeVivo's Shoe Repair Shop this week. Both adult and student tickets will be available. Serfass is also hopeful of opening two admission gates at Giffels Field this week.

night, while East Stroudsburg plays Lehighton under the lights at Memorial Stadium Saturday night. The Mountaineers, fresh from a 13-7 victory over Palmerston, will step out of the Lehigh Valley League for the first time this season on Friday. Right now the charges of Coach Jerry Stulgaitis lead the circuit with three wins and no defeats.

Stroudsburg began work yesterday in preparation for Pen Argyl, with four players on the doubtful list. Ben Miller and Jack Whittle, both on the sidelines during the Palmerston contest with injuries, worked out lightly yesterday.

Dick Campocotta suffered a cut over his left eye that required two stitches to close during the first half of the Palmerston contest. Co-Captain Don Garaventi suffered a knee injury in the Palmerston battle, but was more seriously injured on Sunday, while working on his car.

A piece of steel flew in Garaventi's right eye and had to be taken out by a doctor. Right now the hard running back is wearing a bandage over the injured eye. The remainder of the Stroudsburg eleven is in good condition.

Mike Palmisano, East Stroudsburg guard who suffered injuries to his back and side against Bangor last Friday, will probably miss the next two games, as he has been ordered to stay away from contact work for 10 days.

Harold White's hip injury was slightly aggravated during the Bangor contest, but the remainder of the squad is in good shape, except for the usual number of bumps and bruises occurring in a tough contest such as the one played with Bangor.

Athletic Group To Meet

A meeting of the East Stroudsburg Athletic Association will take place in the high school building today at 7:30 p. m.

East Stroudsburg School Board To Build Press Box

Construction of a "weather proof" press box was one of the main topics of discussion at the Varsity "E" Club meeting last night, held at East Stroudsburg High School.

It was revealed during the course of the meeting that the press box will be constructed by the East Stroudsburg School Board and that it will be reserved entirely for press and radio. Construction of the press box, which will feature a glass front and accommodate 10 people, will begin some time this week.

Future Plans

Plans for future projects and for increasing the membership of the Varsity "E" Club were discussed thoroughly. Means of interesting people in various projects were brought to the attention of the gathering.

Rendering services to the East Stroudsburg athletic setup were also thoroughly discussed during the course of the meeting.

It was announced that a booth will be run by the organization at Saturday night's East Stroudsburg-Lehighton football game, for the purpose of obtaining new members. Reports on work done since the formation of the club were also brought before the gathering.

Another meeting of the organization will be held next Monday, at 7:30 p. m.

Redge Nauman, club president, was in charge of last night's gathering.

Three Matches Listed

Three matches are on the agenda of the East Stroudsburg Ladies' League today, at Harmon's Recreation, at 6:45 p. m. Schedule follows: Alleys one and two—Eagles vs. Ballantines.

Alleys three and four — Brock's vs. Twin County Distributor. Alleys five and six — Square

Dressen Praises Martin's Performance

"Chuck" Dressen

By Will Grimsley
New York (AP) — "It was a blankety-blank 250 hitter that beat us," fumed Brooklyn's Charlie Dressen. "It wasn't Mantle and it wasn't Berra."

"It was that little cuss out there on second base (Billy Martin) who won this Series. He's the best blankety-blank man on their club."

It was so quiet in the Dodgers' dressing room you could hear the little Brooklyn manager cracking his knuckles against the desk and unhappy "Duke" Snider mumbling himself.

The Duke, whose four home runs made him the batting hero of the 1952 Series, struck out three times as leadoff man as the Yankees whipped the Dodgers in a wild sixth game finish yesterday 4-3 and kept intact the Dodger record of never having won a world baseball championship.

But the entire Brooklyn squad had nothing but admiration and praise for the spindly-legged Martin.

Tough Guy

"That little guy Martin is mean on the field," continued Dressen. "He's always trying to do something whether he's at bat or in the field. Always figuring out ways to beat you."

"He'll cut you. He'll trip you. He'll knock your brains out if he can. He's that kind of ball player."

Dressen said he regretted that perhaps he taught Martin too well when the Yankee second baseman played for him at Oakland, Calif., in 1949-50.

"Cookie Lavagetto, a coach, and I were out there always trying to help him. We worked with him a lot. Nobody had to tell me how good he was."

Dressen said last year the Dodgers were beaten by Johnny Mize and added: "I might have prevented that, too, if I'd just bought Mize when I was at Cincinnati back in 1935."

"We had a chance to get him from the Cardinals. But he had to undergo an operation and we did not do it. So he goes to the Giants, then to the Yankees and then beats us in a Series."

The most disconsolate player in the Brooklyn quarters was Clem Labine, the young reliever who served up the pitch to Martin in the ninth that was lashed through the infield to score "Hank" Bauer.

Labine refused to talk to anyone. But catcher Roy Campanella said it was a good pitch — "a sinker which I called for and was just right. He just got hold of it, that's all."

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: FOR WHEN ONE'S PROOFS
ARE APTLY CHOSEN, FOUR ARE AS VALID AS A DOZEN—PRIOR.

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Be quick thinkers, if you don't allow non-essentials to bother you. Seize all opportunity to better your mind and your vision.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — You will be very well-represented. Propositions will come to you who will go along amicably, seeking to be included, doing your duties competently.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — You will be very well-represented and to them early and with precision. Then you can honestly feel satisfied, and you will be able to do the same. They need it as well as you.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — You will be very well-represented. Apply to you today. Concentrate on essential; use forethought and you will be able to receive what is due. It is a humble time. Look for unexpected if not unexpected.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Think smartly today. Be direct but always friendly. Do not let your sensitive gifts within reason. Maintain balance in ideas and activities and you will be successful.

YOU BORN TODAY are usually good natured, generous, fair-minded and determined. You are not afraid of solving intricate problems if you put your mind to them. A thorough education is important to your happiness, success. Associate only with those of honorable character. Do not let your mind drift (as on guard) to flattery, to those who pose upon your generosity, sympathy. Remember: Billings, J. Edgar, Amer. Inventor; Jenny Lind,

Art Show To Be Held At Barrett

Mountainhome — A dozen members of the Barrett Art Group will hold their first exhibition and sale here Friday and Saturday.

The exhibit will be at the Gallery at the Forks here, between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. each of the days.

Group members hope the exhibit will become an annual affair. Exhibiting will be Frances Skillman, Catherine Maxwell, May Price, Eda Brentini, Elvira Carlton, Violet Price, Rose H. Anderson, Julia Miller, Elizabeth McElhoney, Reid Price and Dr. Herbert A. Lorenz.

Sterling Strausser, Stroudsburg, has also been asked to exhibit with the group in order to round out the affair by providing a more modern type of painting.

Some of the oils by Barrett members will be given away as door prizes.

Under consideration as a winter-time project of the art group is the scheduling of free once-a-week art classes, with any area residents invited to attend.

If the art classes materialize, it will be in cooperation with the Barrett Woman's Club. Mrs. Lorenz is chairman of the club's fine arts committee, and of the fine arts committee of the County Federation of Woman's Clubs.

Youngsters Entertained

Thirty-six youngsters who aided the Monroe County SPCA at its tag day this summer were given an outing Saturday at the Wild Animal Farm on Foxtown Hill.

They were guests of Dr. Claude Leister, owner of the farm. Free transportation was provided by bus, with Al Hertz as driver.

PUC Denies Rate Boost To Utility

Harrisburg (AP) — The Public Utility Commission yesterday denied the entire $1,179,000 a year rate increase sought by the Scranton Electric Co.

The commission action ended a nine-month investigation of the proposed boost.

The PUC said its study showed the utility was earning a fair return on its investment under present rates on the basis of operations for the year ended Dec. 31, 1952.

The commission's vote rejecting the proposal was unanimous and sustained formal complaints registered by the city of Scranton and the Throop school district.

The commission's action means that rates of 88,000 consumers in Lackawanna, Luzerne, Susquehanna, Wayne and Wyoming counties will remain unchanged.

A pending merger of Scranton Electric with the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co., Allentown, had no bearing on the rate case, the PUC said.

Knepp Addresses Science Society

Thomas H. Knepp, Stroudsburg High School science department chief, spoke on "Flowers of Monroe County" last night before members of Sigma Zeta Tau, science fraternity at State Teachers College.

Mr. Knepp's address was illustrated with colored botanical slides. The group voted to take a field trip to "Buck Hill Bog" on Oct. 10 after Knepp's address.

Dr. William G. Moore is adviser to the group for which Ted Shanoski is president.

Handed Down Support Order

Tobyhanna's Third Victim Of Polio Is Hospitalized

Tobyhanna—Rosella Scheurer, 15, became this village's third polio victim, according to a report from Municipal Hospital, Scranton, last night.

Her condition was listed as "fair" and she was "resting comfortably."

She is suffering from bulbar polio, and is in a respirator.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Scheurer, left school here because of illness last Wednesday. She is a sophomore at Coolbaugh Township High School.

The girl was ordered to Municipal Hospital Sunday for laboratory tests and examination. The diagnosis of polio was confirmed by the tests.

Also at Municipal Hospital are Barbara Jean, 3, and James Keiper, 1, children of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Keiper Jr., here. The Keiper youngsters were stricken a week ago.

Gamma Globulin, a temporary preventive, was obtained from Dr. R. Frederick Jones, county medical director, and administered yesterday to two infants here who had been in close contact with Miss Scheurer.

The injections were made by Dr. E. O. Headrick, the physician for Miss Scheurer.

Chest Campaign Workers Challenged To Meet Goal

Chairman; Walter S. Peeney, chairman of the 1952-53 drive and the leaders of various Chest divisions.

Among these were Frank Birdsell and Joseph Soukup, resorts; J. H. Stoner and Paul Dellaria, industrial; Max Stadfeld, Bill Wells, Leon Koster, Leon Zacher, Mel Weiss and Mrs. Russell Custard, trades; Joseph McCluskey, Nelson Westbrook, Mrs. R. Frederick Jones, Mrs. Claude Cramer, professional; Mrs. Bobby Westbrook, Frank Waller, organizations; Jess Haynes, Fred Rhodes, Lester Ablesoff, Frank Lanterman, public service; Mrs. Joseph Wallace, Mrs. T. I. Metzgar, Mrs. Elton P. Hall, Mrs. Harold Ingraham and Mrs. Harry Weiss, residential.

Birdsell reported he and Soukup had collected $3,000—about 40 per cent of their resort goal.

Exclamations of surprise from the audience greeted Stoner's report that he, Dellaria and the other members of the industrial committee had collected "85 per cent of the $19,000 industrial goal."

Stoner asked that members of the committee—representing both labor and management—be introduced from the floor.

Last night's dinner meeting—financed by Gerald P. O'Neill, owner of the Penn-Stroud Hotel, in which the dinner was held—was opened with an invocation by Msgr. C. A. McHugh, Mount Pocono.

Chest president J. Albert A. Groner welcomed the workers and introduced Baldwin. A group of girls, dressed in identical costumes with banners representing the ten Chest agencies, were introduced as the "Red Feather Kids."

Doe License Applicants To Get Letters

County Treasurer P. A. Rockefeller will start mailing letters within the next few days to applicants for doe deer hunting licenses. Each will contain an application blank for the license.

These are to be filed out and either returned in person to Mr. Rockefeller at his Courthouse office, or mailed to him.

In either case the applicant will receive his doe deer hunting license.

Mr. Rockefeller said yesterday letters are nearly ready for mailing to the 2,250 applicants for Monroe County's quota of doe hunting licenses. Some applicants have appeared at the office in person to complete forms and receive the license.

Others will get theirs by mail, pursuant to instructions contained in letters about to be placed in the mail.
